That Strange Death
Capone Will Arrive
Another War? Unberufen!
Wise, Super-Wise, Coolidge

By Arthur Brisbane

MYSTERIOUS DEATH, carried by the fog and killing scores in Belgium, worries the British. Reassuring words, to the effect that it only injured those that were already ill, or very ill, are not convincing.

In Yorkshire, near Grosmount, 10 cattle are found mysteriously dead in the fog, with symptoms that look much like those of the Belgium death fog, which also killed cattle.

Could it be—one guess is as good as another—that the recent shower of meteorites brought with it, from distant space, some poisonous substance that, reduced to powder by contact with the atmosphere, floats about in the fog, and is carried into the lungs? Meteorites bring us iron, copper, gold. Why not arsenic, or a worse, unknown poison, from some vicious interstellar neighbor?

The great Capone, at whose name the average gangster turns pale, is to visit Chicago. There is power in such a man. The Chicago American's city editor should escort him to Chicago's Art Museum and have his photograph taken beside the equestrian statue of Colleoni, who was the Capone of his day.

And while Capone is in town the city fathers might ask him, "What would you charge to make this town peaceful and make rackets only a memory?"

He might pacify Chicago as Mussolini pacified Sicily, when he killed the Mafia, and the Black Hand by the power of his will, and the terror of his name.

Washington thinks there is a probability of war in Europe in the next three to five years.

It might come sooner. We learned in 1914 that the crack of a pistol and the foolishness of rulers can start a war as quickly as a match can start a fire.

There may be another pistol shot, or something like it.

Business asks "what would be the effect on the United States?"

This country, we hope, would not send ten billion dollars to help along Europe's fighting, and would not ship three million men to join a fight that is not started by us.

The war would produce the usual temporary prosperity boom here, top prices for copper, cotton, wheat, a great demand for everything we produce.

Then, as war helps nobody on earth we should, eventually, bear our share of the loss, as we are paying now, with our depression, for the last big war.

In yesterday's Chicago Herald Examiner, Calvin Coolidge published an excellent short sermon on advertising. Having good merchandise is not enough, said Mr. Coolidge, "It is just as essential to create a desire for it THAT IS ADVERTISING."

The article concludes:

"Goods not worth advertising are not worth selling."

Wise words, from a wise man. Somebody else put it even more briefly: "If your business isn't worth advertising, advertise it for sale."

Stalin, boss of Russia, had eight men, scientists, on trial for treason. They confessed.

Enormous crowds howled for the death penalty. Everybody said "Of course Russia will kill the eight as quickly as possible."

Now comes news that the death sentences are commuted to 10 years in prison, and the prison terms of three will be made shorter.

The cynic will say: "The accused confessed exactly what Stalin wanted, hence the leniency."

It is a change in Russian methods since Peter the Great, for those that plotted against him he built a platform on which they were tortured to death slowly. Those that plotted and were dead were dug up and their corpses dragged on sleds pulled by swine, beneath the execution platform that the blood of their confederates might drop on them.

In far Calcutta three Bengali gunmen forced their way to Colonel Simpson, head of the Bengal prison, shot and killed him, and wounded another officer. Two killed themselves, the third tried suicide but failed.

Those are primitive Hindu gunmen. Ours are more efficient.

Some time ago Nicholas Lucciano, an informer, called "Cheeks" because of his pink complexion, sent three murderers to the electric chair. He was one of their gang and his evidence saved him from death. At 5 o'clock yesterday morning gunmen murdered him, as he sat in a restaurant.

POOR LEADERSHIP

SENATOR ROBINSON of Arkansas, a professed Democrat, and President Hoover of the United States, a professed Republican, are planning together to put the league court over in the face of the frequent protests of the American people.

This political partnership is an unholy alliance at best, and from the Democratic standpoint an unbelievably stupid alliance.

But it is not an UNNATURAL ALLIANCE.

The fact that President Hoover was nominated and elected on the Republican ticket does not make him any less a Wilson Democrat than Senator Robinson.

MR. HOOVER always has been an internationalist of the true Wilsonian stamp. When he came back to America after spending 20 years abroad, he decided to be a Democrat—partly because Wilson was the same kind of internationalist that he was, and partly because the Democrats were in power, and the most promising political alliance was naturally with the party in power.

At that time Mr. Hoover wanted to get this country into the League of Nations, and he wants to get this country into the league's court now.

Since those Hoover-Wilson days, Mr. Hoover has not changed his internationalist ideas one particle. But when the Republicans came into power, he promptly transferred his political allegiance to the Republican party.

It was a shrewd move, which resulted in Mr. Hoover's election to the presidency, and anybody who thinks Mr. Hoover is not a good politician has another think.

"The crowd" may be unable to think, as Mr. Hoover hinted in an article reprinted in the Yale News some months ago. It may only feel, "having no mind of its own," as Mr. Hoover put it.

But although the crowd "feels" no approval for Mr. Hoover's internationalism, it must "feel" in its blind way a good deal of admiration for Mr. Hoover's political sagacity.

FOR Senator Robinson's political sagacity, on the other hand, there can be no admiration whatever.

Senator Robinson is the worst possible leader the Democratic party could have, because he is unable to see that the country in the last election repudiated Mr. Hoover's international policies.

The people wanted the opposite of the Hoover policies.

RAISING TAX ON JOBLESS BRANDED 'SILLY'

"Political Death," Says Caraway; $100,000,000 to Feed Russia in 1919 Recalled

Washington, Dec. 9—President Hoover gave Congress a stinging rebuke today for the way in which it has dealt with his recommendations on the economic situation.

What he proposed in his messages, he said, represented the extreme limit Congress could go without causing an increase in taxes. Although the session is only a week old enough proposals have been advanced to run total appropriations to above $4,500,000,000.

The rebuke was contained in a prepared statement the President gave to newspaper correspondents at the regular Tuesday press conference.

PRESIDENT AROUSED

He was plainly concerned and aroused.

Some of the suggestions advanced, beyond what he proposed in his messages, he said, were "ill advised," while others "are simply playing politics at the expense of human misery."

"The American people will not be misled by such tactics," he asserted.

If Congress appropriates anything like what the measures already introduced provide for, he pointed out, it will cause a Treasury deficit much greater than that already envisioned, $180,000,000, and this can be met only by increased taxes or by a bond issue. Neither meet with his approval. A tax increase, he declared, would fall on all classes and add to the present unfavorable economic situation, while a bond issue would simply take away from private industry that much working capital.

SENATE IS AROUSED

Opponents of administration policies caught up Mr. Hoover's accusation of "playing politics" and hurled it back at the White House.

"Some of us think the President is playing politics," Senator Dill (D.), of Washington, declared, "or else he is trying to bolster up the New York Stock Exchange by refusing to raise taxes or issue bonds to care for human misery caused by depression. I shall not hesitate to vote for relief measures even if they burden the Treasury, in order to properly care for people in dire need of food and other relief."

Senator Brookhart (R.) of Iowa was resentful that the President had issued the attack on Congress in a statement to newspapers. He said it would have been "much more appropriate if the President had communicated his views in a message to Congress."

The President's warning that a tax increase would fall on farmers and workers also amused Brookhart. He declared farmers were generally penniless and millions of workers were unemployed.

"It is silly to say tax increases

SLUMP ENDING, SAYS AYRES

Cleveland, Dec. 9 (AP)—The bottom of the business depression is at hand and recovery next year should be expected, Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice-president of the Cleveland Trust Company and internationally known business forecaster, said today.

He cautioned, however, that:

"It is already clear that we are not warranted in expecting a rapid recovery.

Poison Caused Death of Shepard's Wife

Kansas City, Dec. 9 (AP)—Col. Edward B. Vedder, of the Army Medical Corps in Washington, testified at the murder trial of Maj. Charles A Shepard today that chemical analysis had revealed poison caused the death of the defendant's second wife, Mrs. Zenana Shepard.

Cambridge Boy Admits Postoffice Holdup

Brookline, N. H., Dec. 9 (AP)—An armed and masked burglar, surprised in the Brookline postoffice and general store early today, forced Postmaster Fred A. Hall to turn over the postal receipts, the postmaster told the police. He would not divulge the amount taken, withholding additional information until postal inspectors arrived.

Hall said he had the worst of a struggle with the robber, who appeared young, and that he was too dazed to notice whether or not he used a car when he fled. He assumed the robber had an automobile and possibly an accomplice, he said, because considerable quantities of merchandise had been removed from the store through a hole cut in the window before he surprised the robber.

Postmaster Hall was held up and robbed on the street three years ago while hewas removing postoffice receipts to his home for the night.

Nashua, N. H., Dec. 9 (AP)—A youth who said he was Richard Gilson of 24 Regent st., Cambridge, Mass., was arrested here today and confessed, the police said, that he robbed the postoffice in Brookline, a few miles from here, this morning.

Gilson was arrested three years ago after Postmaster Fred A. Hall of Brookline had been held up, but was discharged at that time.

Police said they found the $40 in money, quantities of stamps, neckties, stockings, cigarettes and other merchandise taken from the store and the postoffice at Brookline. The police said Gilson was a former resident of that town.

Cleveland, Dec. 9 (AP)—Twenty persons, many of them unconscious, were rushed to Charity hospital here today, suffering from ammonia fumes which escaped from a refrigerating plant in a downtown store building. Many of the victims were women.

2 HELD IN TAXI KIDNAPINGS

Two Malden taxi drivers, Curtis W. Hickman of Cherry st. and Zuke Kashton, were "kidnaped" in their own cars today, and Hickman was left tied to a tree in Saugus, while Kashton was taken to Gardiner, Me., given 50 cents and put out of the machine.

Later Albert Brooks of Buffalo and Willis West of Detroit were arrested near Gardiner and, according to police, were identified by Kashton. They pleaded not guilty in Gardiner court and were held in $2000 bail for trial Monday, while Kashton was held as a material witness.

Malden police believe the same pair were implicated in both cases. Hickman picked up two fare at the Everett terminal and after giving up the wheel of his cab under compulsion of a gun, was robbed of a watch and chain and a few dollars, the robbers overlooking $78 which he carried in a wallet.

Hickman broke away from the rope with which he was tied to a tree in a grove near Lily Pond and walked to the Saugus police station. His cab was found abandoned in Malden.

Kashton, who was robbed of $18, was engaged on Pleasant st. and had driven his two passengers to the turnpike when they produced a gun and took possession of his machine. His car was found abandoned on the outskirts of Gardiner, where it had run out of gas, a short time before Willis and Brooks were arrested.

Walsh Assails Hoover Stand on Relief

Washington, Dec. 9 (INS)—"Bloody revolution" would sweep the United States if state and local authorities endorsed President Hoover's declaration against increasing taxes to relieve unemployment Senator David I. Walsh (D.) of Massachusetts told the Senate this afternoon in an impassioned attack on the President's criticism of Congress.

The Senate seldom has heard so dramatic a criticism of a President as Walsh made. He said the President's only suggestion for relief was a declaration against any increase in taxes.

First, Walsh interpreted the President's statement as being aimed at his proposal for a "five-day week" and other relief measures.

"So we are playing politics. I give him credit for honesty, for sincerely believing that to oppose a single dollar increase in taxes is the sanest and soundest course to pursue in this emergency. But why are we, who dare to propose a single dollar more of relief, playing politics?

PRESIDENT'S PLAN

"What in heaven's name is the difference between relief needed by men and women who have no work and those who are suffering from lack of water in the drouth areas?

"This statement gives us some

Warns of Tax Boost and Opposes Bond Issue to Relieve Unemployment would fall on farmers who are broke and workers who are out of jobs," Brookhart added. "Why, they haven't any money nor any income on which to pay taxes."

'WON'T HELP HOME FOLKS"

The President was criticised in the debate on the Drouth Bill by Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, who read a 1919 measure passed at the request of Herbert Hoover when he was food administrator appropriating $100,000,000 for food to feed the starving in Russia and "contiguous nations."

"Yes," shouted Senator Robinson, Democrat, "he felt there was a right to go into the treasury to feed those in distress in foreign lands but for some mysterious, inexplicable reason it is now wrong to give our own citizens relief from funds which they themselves have contributed."

The Hoover statement was brought to Senate attention by Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, who said:

"The reputation, whatever he has, of the President of the United States rests upon his administration of relief to destitute humanity."

"If he were stripped of that," Caraway went on, "nothing would be left to his biography except the date of birth."

TEXT OF STATEMENT

The President's statement follows:

"I observe that measures have been already introduced in Congress and are having advocacy which, if passed, would impose an increased expenditure beyond the sums which I have recommended for the present and next fiscal year by a total of nearly $1,500,000,000, and mostly under the guise of giving relief of some kind or another.

"The gross sums which I have recommended to carry on the essential functions of the government include the extreme sums which can be applied by the federal government in actual emergency employment on relief, and are the maximum which can be financed without increase in taxes.

'RAIDS ON TREASURY"

"No matter how devised, an increase in taxes in the end falls upon the workers and farmers, or alternatively deprives industry of that much ability to give employment and defeats the very purpose of these schemes.

"For the government to finance by bond issues deprives industry and agriculture of just that much capital for its own use and for employment. Prosperity cannot be restored by raids upon the public Treasury.

"The leaders of both parties are co-operating to prevent any such event. Some of these schemes are ill considered. Some represent enthusiasts and some represent the desire of individuals to show that they are more generous than the administration or that they are more generous than even the leaders of their own parties. They are playing politics at the expense of human misery.

WON'T MISLEAD PUBLIC

"Many of these measures are being promoted by organizations and agencies outside of Congress and being pushed upon members of Congress. Some of them are mistaken as to the results they will accomplish and they are all mistaken as to the ability of the federal government to undertake such burdens.

"Some of these outside agencies are also engaged in promoting political purposes. The American people will not be misled by such tactics."

Every $10,000,000 for Roads Hires 3000 Men

Washington, Dec. 9—An estimate that 3000 men will be given employment by every expenditure of $10,000,000 for new government buildings was made today by Chairman Wood of the appropriations committee in the House today.

Chairman Dowell of the roads committee estimated 52 cents of every dollar spent on roads will go to labor.

The administration's bill to provide an emergency fund of $110,000,000 for construction as an unemployment measure was before the House.

Representative Byrns, Democrat, Tennessee, said some of the proposals submitted in the administration's $150,000,000 recommendation "were proven ridiculous" as unemployment measures.

"It is actually proposed to spend some of this money on increased rations for the army and new uniforms for officers of the reserve corps," Byrns said.

"But when we discovered that the President solemnly proposed to spend more than $500,000 to kill bugs in the national forests, Chairman Wood threw up his hands."

light. Now we know what the President proposes to do in this hour of need, distress and misery. He does not propose, whatever the emergency, whatever the appeal, whatever cry comes up from the suffering people, to levy one dollar more in increased taxes.

"I challenge him to name any Democrat in the country who will endorse his statement.

"I want that man marked who will refuse to increase taxes to help the unemployed and to provide relief for starving Americans. Let him name a governor or a mayor who endorses that stand.

"Long before this there would be a bloody revolution in the states and municipalities if the governors and mayors of our cities took that position.

AID FOR DISTANT LANDS

"What would become of our country if all the governors and mayors said: 'Hungry, yes! But no increase in taxes. Suffering, yes! But no increase in taxes. Foodless, yes! Misery, yes! But no increase in taxes.'

"A hundred million dollars were appropriated some while ago for starving people in far off countries. Now we ask $100,000,000 to help lift the burdens of depression from the states and municipalities and to help the farmers and we are met with the astounding statement that we must not raise taxes.

"It is unbelievable the President will close his ears and refuse to open his heart and mind to suggestions for relief, but will say to all such suggestions: 'No increase in taxes.' The patience of the American people under such circumstances is to be commended."

HANGAR FIRE RUINS PLANE

Old Orchard Beach, Dec. 9—A fire and explosion destroyed the big Bellanca monoplane owned by Capt. Harry C. Jones, noted pilot, in its hangar on the beach today. The hangar was badly damaged.

Joseph Snow, Jones' mechanic, was working on the plane with an electric light when the bulb broke and the fuselage fabric caught fire from the flash.

Flames spread quickly and fumes in the gasoline tank exploded. Snow was able to wheel a small plane rom the hangar. The Bellanca was valued at $15,000 and was purchased by Capt. Jones last spring.

U. S. LAUNCHES NEW SEA QUEEN

Newport News, Va., Dec. 9 (AP)—Amid cheers from a distinguished assemblage, the "President Hoover" slipped down the ways here today to take her place as the new queen of the American merchant marine.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the President, smashed a bottle of brine collected from the seven seas against the prow.

R Stanley Dollar, president of the Dollar steamship lines, owners of the vessel, the largest merchant ship ever built in America, and Mrs. Dollar were on the launching platform.

"In giving the 'President Hoover' to world commerce we feel we not only show confidence in our nation's support of the American Merchant Marine, but confidence in business conditions," Dollar said.

FOUR GIRL REDS TELL OF ABUSE BY POLICE

All Deny Belief in God When Put on Trial for Taking Part in Disturbance

Four girl Communists denied belief in God and told of alleged brutal treatment by the police as they testified in their own defense today in Suffolk Superior Court, where with eight men they are on trial for causing a disturbance on Tremont st. in October.

All the defendants finished testifying today and the closing arguments were made after several policemen appeared a second time as witnesses and denied the defendant's stories.

In his closing Asst. Dist. Atty. David Lasker caused a flurry when he remarked that had the demonstration occurred a few days earlier, with the American Legion in the city, there might have been serious trouble. Defense counsel objected and the remark was excluded.

SAYS NOSE WAS PUNCHED

While her co-defendants smiled broadly, Goldie Waldman, 20, of Cottage st., who is only a little over four feet in height and weighs less than 90 pounds, told of giving battle to three policemen and Capt. Jeremiah Gallivan with her feet, when they held her hands.

The alleged disturbance occurred outside the Hotel Bradford while the A. F. of L. convention was going on inside.

FOUGHT FOUR, SHE SAYS.

"It was a peaceful meeting until the police arrived," said Miss Waldman. "A policeman put Rudolph Gines, who was trying to speak, off the truck and then we began shouting. I shouted our slogan: 'Down with the police, down with police brutality.'

"Three police officers grabbed me. One held my wrists tightly behind my back and Capt. Gallivan began to choke me. I could hardly breathe. So, naturally, I kicked with both my feet with all my might.

"They finally pushed me into a taxicab and two police officers sat on me. The other kept my hands behind me, while Capt. Gallivan kept pushing my head against an iron corner in the cab.

"When the four of them got me to the station I was in a daze, my head was spinning and, after being released on bail, I was ill for several days."

Waterways Urged as Aid to Farmers

Washington, Dec. 9—Completion of a national waterway system was urged as necessary to the prosperity of the Middle West by Secretary Hurley, speaking today before the Rivers and Harbors Congress.

The farm problem can be solved by the establishment of industries in the agricultural belt, he said, but this cannot be accomplished without low transportation costs, such as inland waterways provide.

3-HOUR OCEAN AIR TRIP SEEN

New York, Dec. 9 (US)—"Some day, in 1950 A. D., you will be able to take a rocket airplane in Berlin after breakfast. Before luncheon you will land safely in New York.

"Yes, in 20 or 30 years airplanes driven by rockets will be flying back and forth between Europe and America in two or three hours. The cost will be cheaper than present day sea transportation."

This prophecy was made last night by Fritz von Opel, the German rocket plane enthusiast, now in this city.

On Sept. 30, 1929, near Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, Von Opel flew three or four miles in an airplane, propelled by rockets. Before that he had driven an automobile motivated by the same power.

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—Magistrate Francis X. McQuade today resigned his office shortly before he was scheduled to appear before the appellate division of the Supreme Court's inquiry into the city judiciary.

Referee Seabury said:

"The evidence against Magistrate McQuade does not show corruption, but it does show, because of his other activities, unfitness for office. In the resignation necessity for Supreme Court trial is avoided."

McQuade formerly was treasurer of the National Exhibition Com-

King Will Watch Kellogg Take Prize

Oslo, Norway, Dec. 9 (AP)—Frank B. Kellogg, former American Secretary of State, awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for 1929, and Dr. Nathan Soederblom, laureate for 1930, will receive their diplomas and medals tomorrow at a ceremony to be attended by King Haakon and Crown Prince Olav

TWO KILLED AS FOG BLANKETS LONDON

Ocean and Rail Traffic Tied Up by the Mist; King Calls Off Trip

London, Dec. 9 (AP)—Another of the thick, impenetrable London fogs which have visited London so frequently during the past 10 days lay over the metropolitan area today, blotting out landmarks and hampering communications.

Two persons were killed and several were injured in the London area this forenoon as a consequence of highway collisions due to fog.

Railroad, highway, river and coastal traffic was in a state of complete or partial paralysis over a large section of southern England. One of the most afflicted regions was that around Southampton, where shipping was held up during the night. Four outward bound steamers for channel ports were unable to leave. Two inward bound coastal steamers were forced to anchor all night in Southampton Roads.

King George suffered inconvenience from the fog and had to alter his plans to drive to Windsor today to shoot on the preserves for the first time since his illness in 1928.

Belgian Fog Poisoned, Professor Declares

Brussels, Dec. 9 (AP)—An emphatic declaration that the fog in the Meuse valley which took 67 lives last week could not have killed anyone if it had been uncontaminated was made today by Prof. Nolf, president of the Belgian Red Cross, at the opening of an official inquiry.

His statement gave some support to a belief that noxious fumes from industrial plants were responsible for the deaths. The health commission last week announced that the deaths were attributable to the weakened respiratory system of the victims.

Dr. Felix Bertyn of the Royal Meteorological Institute and Prof. Bordet, the noted bacteriologist, agreed with Prof. Nolf that the fog alone could not have caused all the deaths.

Ship Blown to Bits, Says Wireless Man

Le Palais Belle Isle, France, Dec. 9 (AP)—Giuseppe Gagli, wireless operator on the Italian salvage ship Artiglio, which was destroyed by an explosion yesterday, today told his story from his hospital cot.

"The explosion was terrific," he said. "The ship took a great leap into the air. I was thrown into a boiling sea. Pieces of the ship fell upon me out of a great column of water. I lost consciousness."

government service, to help the employment situation.

Industrialists have learned that the eight-hour day is possible and beneficial. Year in and year out men will do more good work in eight hours a day than they would in ten hours a day.

Perhaps it will be discovered that men can do more work in a five-day week life time than on the old plan.

Big business men know they can do better on a five-day week. You don't find them at their offices on Saturdays, you do find them on the golf links.

They defeated Republicans that supported Hoover policies.

An intelligent Democratic leader would read the writing on the wall. He would profit by the Hoover mistakes, and have the people return more Democrats at the next election.

But Senator Robinson takes the contrary course.

He proposes to commit the Democratic party to Hoover's support.

That will put on the Democrats the odium of supporting Hoover's discredited policies, and, incidentally, WILL LOSE THEM THE NEXT ELECTION.

It was Grant who said that no matter how foolish the Republican party might be, the Democrats could always be counted on to be more foolish.

The jackass is the Democratic party emblem. As long as the party follows the lead of Senator Robinson NO EMBLEM COULD BE MORE APPROPRIATE.'

Bertha Kalich Winning Fight for Her Sight.

New York, Dec. 9—Saved from blindness by a specialist's skill, Bertha Kalich, the tragedienne who won the title of the "Yiddish Bernhardt," is recovering from a long and serious illness.

Bertha Kalich

Her husband, Leopold Spacher, producer, spent almost his entire fortune in the fight to save her life and sight. Mme. Kalich was stricken two years ago when she was appearing in "The Soul of a Woman." She caught cold and the illness developed until it affected her eyes.

Spacher revealed he has sold a home on 72nd st. He said:

"My daughter Lillian has given up her career in order to devote all her time to her mother. We have spent almost all our money for operations, doctors and nurses. But she is recovering rapidly and is already talking about resuming her art."

Alice Longworth Turned Corsets Into Cruisers

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—Others may boast of beating swords into ploughshares, but only Alice Roosevelt Longworth can lay claim to turning corsets into cruisers.

Alice Roosevelt

A story told to acquaintances by J. Leonard Replogle, director of steel supply during the World War, today was admitted as accurate by Mrs. Longworth to an inquisitive friend.

Replogle said corset manufacturers came to him with an appeal for steel. Investigating, he said he learned corset manufacturers had been making a $42,000,000 profit per annum, using 28,800 tons of steel, "enough to build two battleships."

Was this essential industry? He telephoned Alice Roosevelt. It was not, replied the "Princess" of sylphlike figure. The corset men got no more steel.

Son of Eckener to Wed Dorathea Boehm

Munich, Bavaria, Dec. 9—Knut Eckener, who crossed the Atlantic with his father in the Graf Zeppelin, is engaged to marry Miss Dorathea Boehm, 20-year-old daughter of Lieut.-Col. Fritz Boehm, it was announced today.

Knut Eckener

California Sends Gift To Australian Bride

Melbourne, Australia, Dec. 9 (AP)—Among the costly present for the wedding of Comdr. Charles Kingsford-Smith and Miss Mary Powell, which occurs here tomorrow, is a solid silver cutlery service in a beautiful cabinet of bird's eye maple presented by residents of Oakland, Cal.

CARDINAL RECEIVES CHESTERTON; AUTHOR LECTURES TONIGHT

SEES U. S. NATION OF 'LAW IGNORERS,' WORLD DAZED

Gilbert K. Chesterton, famous English essayist, was received today by Cardinal O'Connell.

It was his first audience with the head of the archdiocese. In fact, he became a convert to Catholicism following his last visit to this country 10 years ago; it was not until 1922 that Chesterton, first, and then his wife, embraced the Catholic religion, in which he first became interested through his friend and literary colleague, Hilaire Belloc.

He will lecture tonight at Symphony Hall under auspices of the League of Catholic Women.

ENJOYS HOME-BREW.

A huge man, given to eccentricities of dress that have attracted attention of two hemispheres, he wears a crown of joviality becomingly and can thrust at the weak spots of personalities and nations without wounding.

He thinks, for instance, that the World War made thinking a lost art, but that the loss is general throughout the world

He thinks, for instance, that the attitude of the American people toward all laws is being changed by the prohibition law, but he doesn't think the prohibition law is making us a nation of hypocrites. And he enjoys our home brew.

SHAW WRONG, BUT FINE

He thinks for instance, that George Bernard Shaw is wrong about everything he says of Heaven, earth an dof "anywhere else," but he thinks Shaw is a "fine fellow."

He finds contempt for laws almost nationwide on this side of the Atlantic, a marked change since his last visit here. Recently, he said, he visited with a typical American family in a supposedly typical American town, where church-going was the Sunday program, and everybody voted a straight party ticket.

"But the man of the household brewed beer and the adults drank it without compunction. It was good beer, too," he chuckled, otherwise, perhaps I wouldn't be here now."

"Shaw is a fine fellow, but he is wrong in everything he says about Heaven, earth and anywhere else. Personally I like him and have for years, but I never listen to his utterances."

He anticipated with great pleasure his meeting with Cardinal O'Connell, whom he described as "a most remarkable man."

ORLD DAZED BY WAR

The lack of the ability to think r the will to think is not refreshng, he finds, but he thinks it only mporary—the mind is still dazed y war.

"In the latter part of the 19th entury, most people had one pet ubject upon which they were almost fanatic. Somebody was a ut' on atheism, another was balmy' about free trading, and so n," he said.

"Nowadays people seem to ave open minds, and, while they think for a moment or two, nothing serious seems to be running through their minds. I guess the war made thinking a lost art."

Of the title for his lecture, "The Coming Peril," he said:

LINDSEY IS WRONG

Chesterton thinks Judge Ben Lindsey very much in the wrong in his tilt with Bishop Manning. He thinks Einstein would do well to stow-away on the boat upon which he is coming to this country and so escape the monopoly of drawing rooms—"a very trying one and not a jolly one, eh, what?"

His own fiction character, "Fr. Brown," might go into Chicago and outwit Al Capone, he thinks, and without any fear, because "one has to be a member of the most exclusive criminal set to get murdered there."

He thinks Sinclair Lewis' word pictures of American small-town life are "jolly, entertaining and almost fact," but that they should not entitle him to the Nobel prize.

Chesterton, Famous English Essayist, Jovial on Visit to Boston

LOADED WITH CHUCKLES. Gilbert K. Chesterton, famous English essayist, chuckled at the mention of prohibition in America today as he told a story of one American home he visited and found the church-going head of the family deep in the mysteries of brewing beer. Chesterton, who speaks tonight at Symphony Hall, added that the "home brew was good, too."

IN SERIOUS THOUGHT. The smile faded from the face of Gilbert K. Chesterton, during the interview, when he declared that he noticed a marked change in the attitude of the people of this country toward law in general. He said the change was most marked in contrast to the attitude of the people on his last visit here ten years ago. (Staff photos.)

GARRETT TRIAL LIKELY TO BE DELAYED

Hearing of Murder Case Expected to Cause a Postponement Until Jan. 1

The probability that Oliver B. Garrett will not go on trial before January was seen today when it was learned Attorney John P. Feeney is urging immediate trial of Carmello Guiffre for murder.

At a recent conference before Chief Justice Walter Perley Hall, Asst. Dist. Atty. John Murphy declared the Garrett case of great importance and said it should go to trial as soon as possible.

Attorney Feeney protested on the ground his client, Guiffre, is charged with a capital crime, murder, in connection with the gambling battle in the home of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Revere.

CONSIDERS BAIL

Chief Justice Hall said if Garrett's case was heard first, he would consider the question of fixing bail for Guiffre.

Atty. Feeney then insisted Guiffre go to trial immediately, in which case Garrett's case would not come up until after the first of the year.

Another indication the Garrett trial probably will not start until next month was seen in the fact that Chief Justice Hall usually leaves the bench December 19 or 20 to do naturalization work.

Judge Harold P. Williams will preside in his place, thereby reducing the number of available judges by one.

It was learned at Charles st. jail Garrett is to have new teeth, possibly for Christmas, but at his own expense. The former liquor raider sent for Dr. Prinsky, a dentist at Franklin where Garrett's camp is located.

The prisoner was taken to the laboratory in the jail, where Dr. Prinsky made impressions of upper and lower jaws.

JURY LIST DRAWN

The jury list for the January term of court was drawn by the City Council last Monday, but has not yet reached the courthouse.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Deyle today examined a number of witnesses for the Garrett trial.

They included Florence Luscomb, a social worker, who made observations at Hotel Ritz; Francis Lacroix, brother of Henry Lacroix, formerly of Garrett's squad, and a forman of Garrett's farm; Walter A. Hood, treasurer of the Nonantum Co-operative Bank, Newton; Frederick T. Barnes of the South Weymouth Savings Bank; Ernest Ryan, superintendent, and Wallace Elkerton, salesman of the Cherry-Burrell Corporation, Charlestown; C. S. Wiggins, vice-president of the First National Bank; Everett Gammons, treasurer of the Franklin Savings Bank, and F. W. Fuller of the National Rockland Bank.

J. P. Morgan a Neighborly Expert Violet Grower

Glen Cove, N. Y., Dec. 9 (AP)—J. P. Morgan has returned to New York city after spending the week-end quietly at his country home, East Island, walking about his estate and driving around the countryside, enjoying the brisk, wintry air. Mr. Morgan expects to return next week-end.

Mr. Morgan, whose power is weighed on the scales of empires, is not an awe-inspiring figure to the people of this little town. He is neighborly.

J. P. Morgan, financier by heritage and one of the greatest financial geniuses in history.

He is a champion raiser of violets, for his exhibit won the blue ribbon for size, perfume and form at the 1929 Nassau County Horticultural Society display.

Long ago Mr. Morgan and his late wife made awards to the high school which were continued by the banker after Mrs. Morgan died in 1925.

In her memory he presented the town property worth $5000, including a beach and pier.

The real Morgan is known to few, his children, a few intimates. He detests publicity. The public knows him only as it could know him, by reading cold, matter of fact accounts of loans, financial deals, a matter of reparations in the newspapers. Occasionally there is an item—.. costly portrait bought by Mr. Morgan, a rare antique.

30 MILLION FOR DROUTH FUND

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Senate today passed the bill authorizing $60,000,000 for relief to drouth stricken farmers.

Democrats bitterly assailed the contention of the administration that funds should not be loaned to farmers for purchase of personal food.

Republicans made no effort to cut down the $60,000,000 to the $25,000,000 recommended by President Hoover.

The bill authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to make advances or loans to farmers in the drouth-stricken areas "for the purchase of food, seed of suitable crops, fertilizers, feeds for livestock and fuel and oil for tractors."

The measure now goes to the House, where the agriculture committee has reported ,a bill for $30,000,000.

Farm Board Faces Inquiry About Cash

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—A close study of farm board needs is planned by Chairman Wood before submitting President Hoover's request for $150,000,000 additional funds to the House appropriations committee.

"The farm board still has some of the $250,000,000 already appropriated," Wood said today. "We are going to find out just what the needs and projects are before we act on the new request."

German Chancellor Threatens Action

Berlin, Dec. 9 (AP)—Chancellor Bruening, who is anxious to send the Reichstag home so he can go to work on his financial reforms, took the initiative as Parliament resumed today, announcing that should an attack be made on his foreign minister he would take over that portfolio himself. None of the opposition wants the chancellor to assume the post in what would be tantamount to a one-man government.

SENATE TALKS ON WAR GUILT

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—Debate over international debt cancellations resulted in a discussion in the Senate today over which nation caused the great war.

Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, said he would oppose "as long as I have an ounce of strength" any proposals for cancellation of German reparations giving as the reason that Germany caused the war.

Chairman Borah of the Foreign Relations Committee said he disagreed with Reed, and said France and England must share the responsibility.

Senator Borah said he agreed with Reed that this country already had cancelled too many foreign debts.

Senator Dill, Democrat, Washington, suggested consideration of the effect of American entry into the World Court, in the light of what he termed the campaign for debt cancellation.

"I wonder what would be our position," he said, "if we go into the World Court under the Root formula and can only protest, but not prevent, the court passing on questions vitally affecting us."

Mrs. De Palma Sues to Please Husband

Los Angeles, Dec. 9 (AP)—Declaring that she still loved her husband and that she was acting on his request, Mrs. Ralph De Palma has begun suit against the automobile race driver, for separate maintenance.

"Ralph forced me to do this," she declares. "We were so happy for nearly 23 years. I still love him and want him back. He called me by telephone a week ago and asked for his freedom. That's why I am starting this action."

Stock Losses Drive N. Y. Man to Suicide

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—Unnerved by worry over stock market losses, Seigfreid Weisenburger, 50 a millinery manufacturer, died in a plunge today from a window of his 10th floor Riverside Drive apartment.

Chauffeur Says He Had to Get Liquor for Thayer

Worcester, Dec. 9—The statement that Fred B. Thayer forced him to become his rum-runner was made by Albert Desjardin, chauffeur, named in the Thayer cross-action divorce suit hearing today.

Testifying for Mrs. Jane H. Thayer, his employer, Desjardin said he sometimes purchased as many as 10 bottles of liquor at a time for Thayer.

On one occasion, the witness said, he was feeding the Grafton sportsman one drink an hour under orders, when Thayer got possession of the bottle, drank all its contents and became intoxicated.

Desjardin testified he saw Thayer and Miss Anita Girouard, one of the two women named by Mrs. Thayer, in a bedroom at the Grafton home, and of being requested by Thayer not to tell his wife.

At another time, he testified, Thayer and Miss Girouard were in a room in a building at the Oxford flying field. The witness said he gave warning of the approach of Mrs. Thayer by kicking on the door, and later Thayer gave him $20 "for saving my life."

Desjardin said he and Thayer slept together at Grafton at one period, and that the latter was afraid of the dark.

The witness denied threatening to kill Thayer, and also denied Mrs. Thayer was arrested for drunkenness in Rhode Island while with him. Atty. Frank B. Hall for Thayer said he would produce evidence to refute both denials.

Desjardin said he never saw Thayer other than under the influence of liquor. He admitted he has eaten with Mrs. Thayer ever since the trial began.

He told of visiting the Thayer home on numerous occasions at 4 a. m., "to see if the house was warm and the doors shut."

Armistice for Alice and Dolly

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Soviet will not hang five engineers.

Then takes it back.

Then they went home where it's normal.

When we predicted that the Trojans would beat Notre Dame we were using a California grapefruit for a crystal globe.

Fifteen telegrams arrived panning us for that prophecy which was as wrong as a two-foot yard-stick.

Dolly and Alice are talking again. Meaning Mrs. Gann and Mrs. Nick Longworth.

That's tough. Just when we were hoping the winner would challenge Judge Ben Lindsey.

Alice said, "Hello." Dolly said, "Hello." Which conversation proves there is no diplomat like a telephone central.

Christmas Fund for Workhorses Sought

Appeals for funds for the annual Christmas treat to Boston's work-horses were made today by Dr. Francis H. Rowley, president of the M. S. P. C. A., and William E. Brigham, managing director of the Animal Rescue league. The Animal Rescue league also will purchase horses unfit for further service. Blankets will be given away where it is certain owners are unable to buy them.

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—A new face appeared today at President Hoover's Cabinet meeting. William N. Doak, confirmed yesterday as Secretary of Labor, took his oath and went to the White House for the first time.

GIBSON FEARS FOR ARMS PACT

Geneva, Dec. 9 (AP)—Hugh S. Gibson, American delegate to the Preparatory Disarmament Conference, today told the final session that the draft convention falls far short of expectations.

It lacks several things the American delegation hoped it would contain, he said, but the world at least can look forward to stabilization of armaments.

If anything more than stabilization is achieved at the forthcoming general conference it will be because the governments have made progress in the meantime, he said.

If real disarmament is to be accomplished at the general conference public opinion must be aroused to a greater interest than is now manifest, he asserted.

Injured Juror Is Carried to Court

Charles D. Sargent, injured juror, was carried into a Middlesex County criminal courtroom today to hear closing arguments in the trial of John Furtardo, of Portland st., Cambridge, who is accused of murdering his wife.

Sargent's injury, a ruptured leg muscle, was suffered while he was exercising in the jury room at the courthouse. Arguments were made by John F. Cannon for the defense and Asst. Dist. Atty. Richard S. McCabe. The state contends Furtardo beating his wife following a quarrel, set a small fire in the house and bound himself to a chair. He claims two men who blindfolded him while asleep committed the crime.

Kaufman "Drama" to Be Re-enacted in Maine

Jackman, Me., Dec. 9—Six members of the hunting party from which Mitchell B. Kaufman, wealthy Boston manufacturer, vanished on Nov. 5 are to be recalled in an effort to solve the five weeks' old mystery.

That announcement was made today by Deputy Sheriff True Ellis at Skowhegan, who is aiding Sheriff Elton L. Markham in the investigation.

The members of the party who will be called upon to re-enact the scene and events of the afternoon when Kaufman disappeared are:

Levi Kennedy and Neil Rancourt, guides.

All will go with the authorities to the south shore of Crocker pond and will take approximately the same positions they occupied in the woods at the time the unexplained "second shot," that may have killed Kaufman, was fired.

TAKES PLACE OF KAUFMAN.

Troub, Orlov, Munch, Stern and Kennedy will be strung out along the old tote road where they awaited the deer it was hoped Kaufman would drive through to them from a canal running through a bog.

Rancourt will move through the woods between the canal and the tote road.

A man will be sent into the swamp to take a position near the place Kaufman must have been at the time the unexplained shot was fired.

The various rifles of all members of the party will be fired from two positions in an effort to determine the source of the second shot, which all heard and which all disclaim.

There were three shots fired and heard that day. Kennedy fired one. Orlov fired another. The other, which was said to have been exceptionally loud, is unexplained.

Five members of the party, including Rancourt, believe that it came from the swamp in which Kaufman was driving. Kennedy alone believes that it was fired from a point near the tote road.

First tests made with a rifle which has been examined by Capt. J. Van Ambergh, Massachusetts State police firearms expert, served only to strengthen his belief. A shell judged to have been fired from this gun was found in the woods.

Sheriff Markham decided on more tests today after he had received the report of Deputy Sheriff True Ellis, who returned from Boston with the rifle and shell.

SECOND SHOT A MYSTERY

Capt. Van Amburgh's findings were of such a nature that Sheriff Markham felt further firing tests were imperative in order to check up the conflict of testimony of Kaufman's hunting companions concerning the approximate location of the so-called "second mystery shot," which has never been accounted for.

In the light of late developments fixing the exact spot has come to be of the highest importance. The tests last week were made by Deputy Sheriff Ellis. Sheriff Markham now desires to conduct tests of his own in order to judge for himself.

"As a light snow is falling, we may not be able to go to Jackman," but Deputy Ellis and I will surely be there by tomorrow. I wish to make firing tests with this rifle myself and post Kennedy and other members of the party where they were on the day Kaufman disappeared.

"I know who owns the rifle. I also know what firearms each man was carrying."

Deputy Ellis announced that the owner of the gun lived "around Boston," had been questioned, and was available for further questioning.

TWO SEPARATED

Kaufman's companions relate that they crossed Crocker Pond in boats and entered the woods behind the Murtha camp. One guide, Levi Kennedy, took Troub, Orlov, Munch and Stern along the tote road while the other guide Rancourt, accompanied Kaufman along the canal through the bog.

Rancourt says Kaufman suggested they separate. Kaufman followed the canal, while he headed through the woods to the dam, where they agreed to meet, Rancourt says.

He reached the dam and heard the first shot, fired by Kennedy at a deer. He then heard a second shot. He went into the woods and called, but received no answer. He then cut through the woods to the tote road and met Kennedy, Stern and Munch.

The third shot was fired by Orlov. All denied firing the second shot, but all heard it. The party returned to the Murtha camp and Rancourt went back along the canal, searching and calling for Kaufman. He later rejoined the party and that night Rancourt and Kennedy searched the entire area with lanterns until daylight.

Kaufman's Sister Runs Down Clue in New Bedford

An unsuccessful search for Mitchell B. Kaufman was made in New Bedford last night by his sister, Mrs. A. H. Wechsler, of Jamaica Plain, and police, it was disclosed today.

Mrs. Wechsler, accompanied by relatives, went to New Bedford as the result of the telephone call received from a man now suspected to be either a crook or a crank.

The man said he knew where the missing Boston manufacturer was being held prisoner by bootleggers. Mrs. Wechsler's party met him by appointment in front of the South End library in New Bedford and he directed them to a vacant house in Dartmouth.

He alighted from the automobile and ran. Mrs. Wechsler called the police and the house, little more than a shack in the woods, was searched, also the farm.

One of those accompanying Mrs. Wechsler was Phillip Kyle of Brookline. The man who made the telephone call evidently expected Mrs. Wechsler would be unaccompanied. He told her he received his information from a cousin, who was a bootlegger.

The house pointed out was in Slocum rd.

ONE KILLED IN SPANISH RIOT

Valencia, Spain, Dec 9 (AP)—At least one man was killed and several were seriously injured today in rioting which broke out here on the heels of a 48-hour general strike called in protest against failure of arbitration of a dispute between employers and workers in several crafts.

Shipping was crippled, local transportation facilities were tied up and there were clashes between strikers and police throughout the city.

A mob attacked and overturned a street car. Mounted police and civil guards galloped into the mob firing into the air and the crowd fled.

Heavy police and civil guards were patrolling thes treets this afternoon and bars, cafes and restaurants were closed.

FAMILIAR SWEET SNACKS OVERCOME AFTERNOON FATIGUE

Candy, Ice Cream, Cookies and Sweetened Beverages Quickly Invigorate Tired Workers

Americans have a natural craving for sweets. The growing popularity of candy bars, small packages of cookies, soda fountain beverages is proof of this national desire.

In addition to the taste enjoyment these snacks bring, countless people in business of all kinds are eating and drinking sweet foods in mid-afternoon because they overcome fatigue at that zero hour.

Scientists who have made a study of this habit say that the quick refreshment that follows eating a sweet snack is due to the fact that sugar not only digests readily, but its energy is ready for use immediately.

Many workers drink a glass of water sweetened with sugar for a mid-afternoon pick-up. This is known as the "athlete's cocktail" because of its popularity among people engaged in sports. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

MOTHER OF 13 IN APPEAL FOR FOOD

Thirteen children, the oldest of whom is only 14, are in urgent need of food and clothing. They have not had any substantial food for weeks. The mother, weakened by a recent illness is trying desperately to keep a semblance of warmth in their humble home while the father tramps the street every day looking for work.

This case, filed as No. 99 with the Helping Hand editor of the Boston Evening American, is one of the most pathetic among the hundreds of appeals received. Any one wishing to help should do so at once by communicating with the Helping Hand Department at Liberty 4000.

MOTHER'S APPEAL
(Refer to Case 99)

I am the mother of 13 children, the oldest 14. My husband has been out of work for a long time. I have just been to the hospital for an operation, and I have to go again. My baby is only 10 weeks old. The only help we get is a little help from the town, and that isn't much. We didn't have anything for Thanksgiving, and we don't expect to have anything for Christmas. If you could only send us something to eat and some warm clothes, I would appreciate it very much.

This mother lives in Wakefield. Anyone wishing to aid may call the Boston Evening American Helping Hand at Liberty 4000. Refer to Case 99.

WANTS CLOTHING, FOOD
(Refer to Case 100)

I am writing to ask you if you can please help us a little at Christmas. I have five children, ages from 14 months to 10 years, and my husband is sick at a sanitorium for nearly two years and will have to stay there a long while yet.

I will appreciate any kind of clothing or anything you can send for Christmas as I can't buy a thing. They haven't got clothes enough to wear and it isn't going to be a very happy Christmas for them unless some one is kind enough to help.

This woman lives in Roxbury. Anyone wishing to aid may call the Boston Evening American Helping Hand. Liberty 4000, and refer to Case 100.

SEVEN NEED FOOD
(Refer to Case 101)

Would you please send me a basket for Christmas, as my husband has not worked for two years as he has been sick.

I am 28 years of age and have seven children. One baby is in the hospital for eight months. I need nourishing foods for the baby and can't afford to buy any. I have been getting city aid for two years and it is a hard struggle. Any thing you give will be appreciated. The children are 9, 6, 4, 2, 2 months and 6 months.

This woman lives in Allston. Any body wishing to aid may call the Boston Evening American Helping Hand, Liberty 400, and refer to Case 101.

12 WANT FOOD
(Refer to Case 102)

I am very poor. I have 10 children. My husband is not working because he is a cripple in one leg for five years.

I have one son working in the family. I am not able to get anything for my children Christmas. I hope you can help me a little by sending me a basket for Christmas, so my children can be happy on that day. I hope you don't forget us. Please help us a little.

This woman lives in East Cambridge. Anyone wishing to investigate this case may learn the address by calling the Boston Evening American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000 and ask for Case 102.

KNOCK THAT COLD IN A JIFFY

Here's Relief Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something that you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only a few cents.

Doing Much to Help Needy

MRS. P. J. BURKE of St. Stephens st., who has personally taken over 60 cases from the Helping Hand Department of the Boston Evening American. Mrs. Burke investigated every case and assisted each destitute family according to their needs. Here you see Mrs. Burke looking for more hungry mouths to feed, as she sits at the desk of the Helping Hand Editor, looking over the many cases of needy poor in Greater Boston. Already more than 600 cases have been aided through the Boston Evening American. (Staff photo.)

GAS SURVEY OF N. E. PLANNED

A survey of the gas business in New England is about to be undertaken by J David Houser & Associates of New York, commercial engineers, it was announced today by C. D. Williams, executive secretary of the New England Gas Association.

J. David Houser

The survey is to be an effort on the part of the gas utilities to improve service, relations and selling approach.

In spite of the decline of sales of most commodities throughout the country, sales of manufactured gas in New England have shown a decided increase. General increases have also been made in the output of gas for all domestic purposes, it was announced.

What can be done with Life Insurance

(1) Building an Estate

To plan and build an estate of substantial size is a serious and often a life-long problem.

Is the estate you will leave sufficient to do for your family all you would like to have done? If not, do you know how you can increase it immediately? How you can make sure of leaving adequate financial means for them?

Through LIFE INSURANCE, with a comparatively small annual premium, you can build an estate of substantial size and effectiveness,—the proceeds payable at whatever time and in whatever manner you designate.

EINSTEIN WILL TALK AND POSE

S. S. Belgenland, Dec. 9 (AP)—Prof. Albert Einstein, author of the relativity theory, has at last consented to meet reporters and pose for photographs when he arrives in New York Thursday. He will remain on the vessel while it is in the harbor, however.

Mrs. Einstein told the correspondent of the Jewish Telegraphic agency that she had finally convinced her husband to grant newspapermen 15 minutes rather than be "hunted" by them.

Dr. Einstein will address one meeting by radio from the ship.

On Train Is 'Safest Place in U. S.'; Few Passengers Killed

Chicago, Dec. 9 (AP)—A railway train, in the opinion of Charles E. Hill, general safety agent of the New York Central, is the safest place in the United States.

Speaking before the safety section of the American Railway Association, Hill said the number of deaths to passengers had decreased from 250 in 1913 to 114 in 1929, and that 78 of last year's fatalities were from causes over which the roads had no control. He added that the railroads last year carried "nearly nine hundred million passengers."

HOUSE BILL TO GIVE HOOVER $110,000,000

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—The House received from its appropriations committee today the unemployment emergency construction bill providing $110,000,000 for highway aid and river and harbor improvements.

The sum of $80,000,000 was stipulated for advance to states for highway construction, so they might go on with building despite inability to meet federal aid obligations. The fund will be returnable over a period of five years, where the states cannot meet federal funds on a 50-50 basis.

River and harbor work was allowed $22,500,000; flood control on the Mississippi and its tributaries $3,000,000; roads and trails for national forrests $3,000,000, and roads and trails in national parks $1,500,000.

TOP OFF $40,000,000

Reporting the bill, the committee reduced President Hoover's requested $150,000,000 lump sum to be allocated by him by $40,000,000 and required that definite allotments be made for use of the $110,000,000.

The bill contains a clause providing for the interchangeability of the appropriations so that in event it may be expeditnt to utilize more funds upon one character of work than another, the President will have authority to make such transfers.

IN NEW ENGLAND

The highway aid allotments included the following: Connecticut, $520,491; Maine, $719,7[illegible]; Massachusetts, $1,141,460; New Hampshire, $400,000; New York, $4,040,566; Rhode Island, $400,000; Vermont, $400,000.

For roads and trails in forests New England States and the southern Appalachian region get $450,000.

For rivers and harbors works, the North Atlantic division was given $3,141,500 allotted as follows: Lynn Harbor, Mass., $90,000; New Bedford Harbor, Mass., $230,000; Fall River Harbor, Mass., $200,000; New Haven Harbor, Ct., $[illegible]50,000; Bridgeport Harbor, Ct., $153,000.

Xmas Fund Entertainers

MICKEY ALPERT

HARRY K. MORTON

MICKEY ALPERT, leader of the Cocoanut Grove orchestra, and Harry K. Morton, dancing comedian of "The Street Singer," are on the program of the midnight show at Keith Boston Theater, Dec. 15, in aid of the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American. Alpert will have his entire floor show on the basket fund bill.

New Stars Added to Xmas Basket Midnight Show

More stars added to the program of the big midnight show at Keith-Boston theatre, December 15.

And many more dollars added to Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American in aid of which the biggest show of the year will be staged.

Harry K. Morton, dancing comedian of "The Street Singer" and his pretty partner, Jane Love, will be in the wings when the clock strikes 12 all ready with a special arrangement of songs and dance numbers.

All seats are reserved for this performance and all with the exception of boxes and loges are being sold for one dollar each. Never before was such a bill offered at that price to Boston theatregoers.

NIGHT CLUB ORCHESTRAS

Just glance through a partial list of the stars and you'll find a number who ordinarily draw fancy prices. And remember, in addition to these acts, you'll be entertained by Boston's best night club orchestras including Mickey Alpert's band from Cocoanut Grove, Jacques Renard's orchestra from the Mayfair Club and Fess Williams from Hollywood Inn.

ART BROWN ON BILL

And after you've enjoyed that wonderful assortment of entertainment you'll be treated to a sight of the attractive Reynolds sisters, juvenile stars of the Cocoanut Grove floor show and you can listen to the quips of Arthur Brown, master of ceremonies at the Mayfair Club.

It's a show you can't afford to miss. Opportunities like this come not often in a lifetime. And the reason for it is the great need for relief that is felt this year by many families not only in Greater Boston but in every section of New England.

The entire receipts from this event will be turned over to the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American. The dollar you pay for amusement will find its way to some family suffering for want of warm clothing and fuel. There are many hungry children depending on the Christmas Basket Fund to supply them with food. Do not fail them. Buy your tickets today.

Tickets are on sale at both Keith Theaters. Queenie Smith is selling them nightly at the Shubert Theater, assisted by Harry Morton. Isabel Dwan, partner of Bobby Pinkus, is selling them nightly at the Keith-Boston. They are going fast. BETTER HURRY.

Germans Drink Less Beer; Export More

Berlin, Dec. 9 (INS)—Beer drinking is becoming less and less evident in Germany because of business depression. Beer production in the third quarter of 1930 fell off more than 21 per cent, or 13,250,000 gallons, compared with the second quarter. But export of German beer has reached the highest mark since 1927.

Boy Hit-and-Run Victim

Taunton, Dec. 9 (AP)—Roland Prairie, 1, died today, victim of a hit-and-run driver. The boy was run down near his home last night.

CLUB JOINS IN AIDING NEEDY

The Jefferson club of Cambridge and its auxiliary, the Dolly Madison Associates, today joined the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American in bringing relief to scores of Cambridge families.

Addresses of those who had appealed to the Basket Fund for food and clothing were given to a committee from the club and the work of investigating each case and distributing supplies was begun.

There are many responses from individuals who are glad to be of service to those less fortunate. But the answers have not yet kept pace with the pleas for help.

Help them by sending a donation, no matter how small to the Christmas Basket Fund. If you are a member of any club or fraternal organization you can help by calling on your fellow-members to join in the work.

Addresses of needy families can be obtained by calling the Christmas Basket Fund at Liberty 4000 or by mailing a letter to the Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

$54 Tax Rate Stirs Fight for New Town

Blackstone, Dec. 9—Because of the high tax rate of $54 a thousand, residents of the East Blackstone and Millerville districts are seeking permission to incorporate under the name of the town of Lafayette.

A petition has been filed with the Legislature, asking the right to withdraw from the town of Blackstone. Three years ago a similar petition was denied.

Caracas, Venezuela, Dec. 9 (AP)—A statue of Henry Clay, presented to Venezuela by the United States government, was dedicated today by James Rockwill Sheffield, former American ambassador to Mexico, and a distinguished American delegation.

Police Bare "Red" Arsenal in Bavaria

Pirmasens, Bavaria, Dec. 9—Police announced discovery today of an alleged Communist arsenal containing a dozen bombs and explosives for the manufacture of bombs. Twenty-four members of a Communist Anti-Fascist league have been arrested.

Perhaps modernistic art is not such a new idea after all. An enterprising American, when exploring Africa a few months ago, found some brass sculptures which are not unlike the modernistic caricatures now being produced in the studios of America and Europe. Read about these strange models in the next American Weekly section of the Boston Sunday Advertiser. Reproductions of photographs of these modernistic exhibits appear with this interesting story.

What's Doing in Sport Along the Rue De La Paix ↕ Jim Duncan Sends Newsy Billet Doux From Gay Paree

How Old King Cole Once Had Him Guessing

Washington Street, with its Christmas hustle and bustle, wears on you once in a while. You tire of Tremont Street. Sporting events in the Garden and the Arena do not carry their usual kick. You need a bit of a change. Boston is a grand old town. Home sweet home can't be beat. But you'll appreciate Curleyville on The Bay all the more if you get away from it for a day. Absence makes the heart grow fonder. What do you say if we hop over to gay Paree? A nice ride through the Bois or a walk down the Champs Elysees where you can wink at the little midinettes and every woman invites your smile and pouts when you don't give it to her. There is a freemasonry in the sidewalk smiles of Paris. They carry no affront, give no offense. Let's be naughty and go to Montmartre and La Place Pigalle. Here we are in a sidewalk cafe. Garcon! Coup de blanc, s'il vous plait. Non! Non! Non! Let's celebrate. No vin ordinaire for us. Une bouteille champagne. Toute de suite!

George Underwood

One bottle of champagne, perhaps two, seeing we're celebrating, with Jim Duncan, whose letter today gives us the little vacation along the Rue de la Paix. Jim is the old national discus champion and world's record holder. Jim went over to France about the same time Sparrow Robertson did to become sports editor of the Paris Herald. Jim now is superintendent of the American Cemetery at Suresnes. But Jim is no dead one. Parbleau! We should say not!

Never shall we forget our first meeting with Jim Duncan in Paris. That was before Jim became settled, sedate and the superintendent of a cemetery. He had been over there just long enough to get homesick. He longed for a breath from home. So when we 'phoned him we were in town and to come over to the Ermitage to meet us Jim went a bit whoopee. He rounded up others of the expatriates. In rounding them up Jim made many stops, partook of much refreshment. He partook not too wisely but too well. So well that when the fiacre pulled up in front of the Ermitage bar the other expatriates had to lift Jim out. They carried him in, gently placed him in a chair. Jim laid his head on his arm on a table and gave away to lusty American snores. An hour or so later Jim woke up. He had a most perplexed and amazed look on his face.

Over the bar at the Ermitage is the famous Old King Cole painting that once adorned the bar at the Hotel Knickerbocker, 42d st. and Broadway, New York. And old Charley, who tended bar at the Knickerbocker, followed Old King Cole to Paris and presided over the mahogany at the Ermitage.

Duncan looked at King Cole, Charley the bartender and the group of New Yorkers laughing and talking, rubbed his eyes, shook his head and looked again. Then he got up, ambled over and taking me by the arm whispered, half frightened:

"Shay, how did I get here?"

"You came with Joe and Bill in a fiacre," we explained.

Couldn't Be Done

"Quit your kiddin'!" commanded Jim. "Can't cross ocean —hic—in fiacre. Get drowned. Quit your kiddin'! Last thing I remember is having drink at Henry's. Milt Henry's—hic—place in the Rue Volney in Paris. Now I'm home. Shay George, how'd I get here?"

"Where do you think you are Jim?" we asked.

"Why, right here in the Knickerbocker, For-Secon' and Broadway, Noo York. How'd I get here?"

"You're not in New York, Jim," we explained. "You're in Paris."

"Not in N'York? What'ja think I am—hic—'toxicated? Not in N'york? Not at Knickerbocker? Quit kiddin' me! There's—hic—Ol' King Cole. There's ol' Charley, shaking 'em up in the same old way. An' there you, you Ol' Onion. There's Bill an' Harry an' Pete an' all the old gang. Think I'm so 'toxicated—hic—I can't rec'nize Ol' King Cole in' Knickerbocker? How'd I get here?"

It took six of us half an hour to convince Jim Duncan he still was in gay Paree and not at 42nd st. and Broadway.

And now here's good old Jim chipping in with a nice long letter telling us of sports doings in Paris. Tune in. Here's Jim at the typewriter now:

"The result of the Carnera-Maloney fight was a very big upset to the French and Italian races. Carnera was looked upon as the next world's champion. I was at the fight when he fought Young Stribling in Paris. Hade a ringside seat (free). Stribling had him outpointed when after the bell, Carnera hit a few belts and drove him to the floor, losing the fight. At the time Stribling was very tired and in my opinion he would not have lasted the full 10 rounds.

"Boxing in Paris is going very big at the present time, the big matches are priced from ($20 to $1.50) 500 francs to 30 francs a seat. The house is always crowded. The majority of the fights are rotten, but the crowds always come back for the next one."

Before Messrs. Dan Carroll, John Buckley, Phil Buccola and other Boston boxing promoters start packing up and taking their stables to Paris because of the high prices the customers pay for punk fights it might be well to remind them that boxing is taxed 38 per cent in France. By the time all the other taxes are taken out French boxers and managers have little left.

BIG SPORTS CROWDS

"The French," continues Jim, "are really only interested in football, soccer, tennis, boxing, track and field athletics and horse racing. On Sundays at the big football matches they draw from 30,000 to 60,000 people. Racing on Sundays draws more than 100,000. Large track and field meets draw from 40,000 to 50,000. More than 40,000 people saw Jules Ladoumegue break the world's record for 1600 meters. The track was very heavy and it was raining and he finished full of running. The crowd went wild and it ended in many happy free-for-all fights in the stands. I'm very sure that this fellow can break the world's record for a mile. He's a very strong runner, like our old friend, "Mel" Sheppard, who I think was the greatest runner in the world. What has become of Mel. Give him my regards if you see him.

"In a few months you may see a young Czechoslovakian boxer by the name of 'Fronta Nekolny,' who fought a very good French welterweight, 'Jean Gavalda,' and beat him. Jack Root, the old champion, tells me that Nekolyn has the making of a champion. He is about the fastest fighting machine that I have ever seen in the French ring, and from what I hear he fights like 'Kid Berg,' but faster.

"France has a great discus thrower in Sergt. Noel, who is still in the army. He is only 23 years old and throws 50 to 5. meters. If he had the finish of our old friend, Martin Sheridan, he would make them all sit up. At that it will take a wonder to beat him. He will be one of many good French athletes America will have to watch in the next Olympics.

"Well, George, it's time to put the kids to bed. Just bought a nice petit chateau with lots of grape vines, which puts out over 11,000 litres of vin rou and vin blanc yearly. Down near the Spanish border. It's a great place in which to live and die. Madam Duncan joins me in begging you to come over. She says I must promise not to fall asleep like I did that night at the Ermitage. Ha! Ha!

REGARDS TO BOSTONIANS

"Give my best regards to George Brown and Johnny Hallahan and my old friends in the Boston A. A. Don't forget Frank Gillispie. You and Arthur Duffy must have some great fanning bees. I remember you telling me Duff was the greatest 100-yard man you ever saw. Am in fine health and hope you all are, too. Joyeux Noel. Je vous souhaite une bonne anne."

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to you and yours, Jim, too.

But say, Jim, you forgot to tell us how Sparrow Robertson was. And not word about Georges Carpentier, Charlie Ledoux, Eugene Criqui, Francois Descamps. And Luigis, and Zellis and Ciros and the jumping off place at Henry's. Ah, how we would like to be strolling down the Rue Daunou to Ciro's and dejeuner.

How about La Place Pigalle? Is Le Bouf sur le Toit—the Bull on the Roof—still running? And that other cafe with the oddest of names "Mieux Ici Qu'en Face," which in English is "Better Here Than Opposite." "Opposite" is the cold, black Seine. Paris sometimes is gruesome in its humor. Sometimes, but not often. Paris always is fresh, alway young, always joyous. It's good to go there once in a while. But it's better when you get back to Boston. There's no place like the little old U. S. A.

HANGING TO A HUMAN HURRICANE

PAUL "BUCKY" O'CONNOR, the devastating dervish from Notre Dame, straining every muscle to break away from Ernie Smith, U. S. C. tackle, who is hanging on for dear life. The North Walpole (N. H.) lad, a New England contribution to the Rockne Raiders, had sliced 3 yards through tackle and was slowed up trying to elude the secondary when Smith got his paws on "Bucky" from behind. This is one of the most vivid action photos of the season. O'Connor is still carrying on with his drive—seeing the goal posts ahead—while Smith seems to know what will happen if his hands should slide off those silk pants that the Rocknemen wore. O'Connor was a third string back before the game. (Associated Press photo.)

Nov. 11—Centre College at Boston.

Nov. 21—Boston University at Boston.

Nov. 28—Holy Cross College at Boston.

All home games to be played at Fenway Park.

Western Maryland, undefeated in the last three years under Dick Harlow, and Center College, the famous Praying Colonels of Kentucky, are the two new additions to the Boston College football schedule for next year which was released at a meeting of the graduate advisory board.

Western Maryland had previously been obtained to replace the Marines and by a shifting of dates, the Green Terrors of Harlow, former Colgate coach, will be played in Baltimore on November 7. Just four days later, on Armistice Day, November 11, the second new acquisition in the appearance of Centre, will take place at Fenway Park.

Major football awards go to:

John Dixon, Henry Buckley, Anders Anderson, Ralph Maliett, Joseph Kelly, George O'Connell, John Marr, John Young, Mike Curran, Joe P. TIGERS PLAY AT SPRINGFIELD

Boston Tigers left for Springfield today to battle the league leading Indians in their own wigwam tonight.

The Tigers ended their string of losses in New Haven Sunday night, peppering Jackie Forbes in the Eagles' net most of the night, getting three shots past for a 3 to 1 victory. Greatly improved combination play on the part of the Tiger forwards and brilliant body checking by Yip Foster were the outstanding features of the battle.

Peaches Lyons, spare left winger, who has been playing with the Tigers on loan from the Bruins, left the club to join the Philadelphia club of the National Hockey League in the Bruins-Quaker trade, which brings Darragh to Boston.

Stanford to Play in Boston Next Fall

Los Angeles, Dec. 9—Three intersectional games are listed on the 1931 football schedule of Southern California and Stanford.

Southern California will repay the visit of Notre Dame to the Pacific coast with a game at South Bend next Nov. 21. Stanford will play Dartmouth at Boston, Nov. 28. Stanford and Minnesota are scheduled for Palo Alto, Oct. 10.

"Irish" to Parade Through Chicago

Chicago, Dec. 9 (INS)—Tomorrow has been proclaimed "Irish Day" by Hanton J. Cermak, president of the county board of commissioners, so Chicago can pay homage to the championship Notre Dame football team.

County and city officials will join in the parade.

OFF ON THE RUN THAT BROKE U. S. C. HEARTS

AND THE WALLS OF TROY TUMBLED. Once more the camera has caught a glittering glance of the omnipresent "Bucky" O'Connor just breaking into the wide open spaces on the 80-yard scamper that produced Notre Dame's second touchdown and broke the spirit of the Trojan warriors as well as a good many "native" hearts. Note the perfect interference and blocking. Every U. S. C. player has been nudged just enough to give the ball carrier a stride or two jump on them. It was termed the "perfect play" by coast football experts. Three years ago Art Parisien, a Haverhill boy who was a sub back at Notre Dame, was given a chance and hurled the pass that whipped Southern California. Now N. E. contributes another lad to claim a share of Notre Dame's glory and success. (Associated Press photo.)

Con O'Kelley to Clash With Al Friedman Next Monday

By RINGSIDE

Con O'Kelley, Irish heavyweight, has been signed to meet Al Friedman of Roslindale in a 10-round bout at an Argonne A. A. show at the New Boston Arena on Monday night.

O'Kelley takes the place of Dick Daniels of Minneapolis who was originally booked with Friedman. Daniels was obliged to withdraw from the contest on account of an abscessed tooth.

Sharkey Back Training at Toland's Gym

Mack then turned to O'Kelley. The latter won a decision over Friedman in a bout staged in the New York Garden. He says he will repeat next Monday night.

Jack Sharkey, American heavyweight champion, has resumed training at Jim Toland's gym. He will work steadily for two weeks so as to be ready for any bouts Johnny Buckley may line up for him.

Sharkey will also help prepare Ernie Schaaf for his ten-round bout with Max Baer, which will take place at the New York Garden on December 19.

Bobby Mays of New Bedford disputes Andy Callahan's right to bill himself as New England lightweight champion. Bobby is sending his photograph broadcast labeled "New England lightweight champion." Mays is managed by the energetic H. E. Finnell.

The St. Joe's T. A. Society will stage another series of bouts in its Golden Glove tournament at Mechanics Building on Saturday night. There will be bouts at 112, 118, 126, 135, 147 and 160 pounds and in the light heavyweight division.

Matchmaker Alex MacLean of the Boston Garden intends to match Jim Maloney and Johnny Risko for a return bout early in January. Shamus and Rubbery Jawn are willing to sign on the dotted line.

Ebbets Knocks Out Franklin in Second

Lakewood, N. J., Dec. 9 (US)—They thought George Callahan was dying last October. The 15-year-old boy lay in the Camden County Tuberculosis Hospital. He had been in bed for three years.

Then the World Series began. The boy's eyes shone brightly. He became stronger. He talked of his heroes, Jimmy Foxx and Connie Mack. Jimmy Foxx, dynamic first baseman for Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics, heard of this hero worship and was touched. He rushed to the hospital with autographed photographs of himself and Mack and—Gee!—an autographed baseball with the names of all the players. And he said:

"I'll hit a home run for you, kid."

The Callahan boy listened. There came the day it seemed the Cardinals had the game won. It was the ninth inning. And Jimmy Foxx hit one for the kid. It went over the fence.

Young Callahan looked stronger than ever. They even thought he might live. But today, last week, last month, there were no World Series, no Jimmy Foxxes hitting home runs. He sank and—with the photographs of the manager and first baseman clasped to his breast —he died.

Albie Booth Not to Start in Eli Opener

New Haven, Dec. 9—Albie Booth, Yale's outstanding athlete, will be lost to the basketball quintet for a while as far as regular duty is concerned because of a leg injury which dates back to football. Booth was slated to start for Yale tonight when the Eli five opens its season against the New London Submarine Base team on Yale's home floor.

He will be in uniform, but will not start and will not play very long. Henry Gallagher, a substitute from last year's squad, will start at Booth's forward.

Fights Last Night

By the Associated Press.

Philadelphia—Henny Bass, Philadelphia, outpointed Johny Jadick, Philadelphia (10); Matt Adgie, Philadelphia, knocked out Mike Sullivan, Atlantic City (3).

MIDDIES IN FINE SHAPE FOR GAME

West Point, N. Y., Dec. 9—Five Army stars are in the hospital and will be unable to play against the Navy in the charity football game for the Salvation Army at the Yankee Stadium on Saturday, according to Maj. Ralph Sasse, coach of the Cadet eleven.

The players are: Armstrong, Malloy, Trice, Hillsinger and Summerfelt. In addition to these, Sasse said Carlmark, Stecker and Frentzel are also suffering from injuries, and may be unable to play.

If the Cadet casualty list is as heavy as the coach asserts, the Army is due for a licking on Saturday.

No matter how weak the Army may be, however, the fact that the Cadets are playing their traditional enemies after a lapse of three years is expected to inspirit the soldiers and key them to a fighting pitch.

Only Light Work Scheduled for Middies

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 9—Bill Ingram, Navy coach, will give his players just enough work to keep them in shape for their game with the Army on Saturday.

All regulars came out of the Penn game in good shape, and one of the most cheering results was the return of Johnny Gannon, halfback, to the form he displayed in the 1928 season when he was one of the most dependable backs on the Middy list.

Cannon faded from the picture after the Dartmouth game last season, but Saturday he gave a highly satisfactory demonstration of ball-carrying.

Another spark of cheer gained from the last few games was the development of Tom Hurley, another back who showed great driving power in the conquest of Pennsylvania. He has been a dependable ball-carrier, but reached the height of his game Saturday.

Army-Navy Ticket Sale Passes $600,000 Mark

New York, Dec. 9 (US)—En route to the million-mark, the ticket sale for the Army-Navy benefit game has passed the $600,000 mark. A concerted drive throughout the city was begun to dispose of the 17,000 tickets that remain unsold, and it was predicted by Grover Whalen, chairman of the sponsoring committee, that the next few days will bring a complete sell-out.

40 Girls Turn Out for Swim Practice

More than 40 girls turned out for the first indoor practice of the season of the Boston Swimming Association girls' team, held in the Cabot st. municipal pool, Cabot st., Roxbury, last night.

Included in the girls was little Miss Elinor Weene, aged 10, daughter of Mrs. Rose Pitonof Weene, first woman conqueror of the Boston Light course.

TEAMS CLASH THURSDAY AT GARDEN

Captain Ellis, who sustained a bad cut on his chin when he failed to deflect a hard shot by Bob Saltonstall, was today declared sufficiently recovered to start against the Engineers.

Charlie Cunningham, right defence player for Harvard has been shifted to right wing to strengthen the only weak spot in the sextet.

This is the first time that Cunningham has appeared in the role of a forward for Harvard. For the past few seasons he has played defence, where his rugged build made him a great asset.

Stubbs Forced to Change Lineup

Lack of wing material, however, has caused Joe Stubbs to make several changes in his Crimson lineup. At present he has four combinations of attacking trios.

Stubbs expects to bring this trio along intact during the early season games Another good sophomore forward who alternates with Putnam in this combination is Mike Baldwin, who caged the third goal to tie Yale freshmen a year ago.

Tech Team Picked for Harvard Game

Coach Stewart has announced the Tech lineup against the Crimson on Thursday night. Virtually no change has been made from that which has been scrimmaging together the past two weeks. On the defense, the veterans, Capt. Ben Hazeltine and Peterson will team up at left and right defense, respectively. Whiston and Coleman have waged a merry battle for the goal position and the coach expects to use both boys on Thursday before he definitely decides as to who will be Phil Riley's successor.

Ex-Irish Arriving for Charity Game

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 9 (AP)—Old-time Notre Dame football stars from all parts of the country began arriving to prepare for their charity game in New York next Sunday against the New York Giants professional team.

Twenty of the old-timers were on hand. A dozen more will join them here or in New York. None of this year's Irish will play in the New York game, it was announced today.

Name Joyce Captain at Springfield

Springfield, Dec. 8 (AP)—The Springfield College varsity soccer team tonight elected Sumner Joyce of this city captain for the 1931 season. Joyce, a member of the class of 1932, played center halfback in the season recently closed. He is a basketball and tennis player in addition.

STURDY HARVARD SENTINELS WHO'LL DEFEND THE NETS

SAM BATCHELDER CAPT. HARDY ELLIS CHARLIE CUNNINGHAM

Eastern Football Teams Equal of Any, Says Runyon

By DAMON RUNYON

Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.

New York, Dec. 9—Well, well, well, well, well, well, well, well, I suppose I should have known all along that Mr. Marcus Aurelius Kelly, and all those other folks out there in Southern California were only kidding us about their great football club.

Damon Runyon

I suppose I should have known that they were only hollering "Boo" just to see us shiver and shake. But they preserved such solemn pans all the time they were talking that I thought for once they were in earnest. I thought that for once the wolf was indeed at our door, and there was fire where there was smoke and all that sort of business.

Now I freely admit that Mr. Kelly and his fellow Southern Californians had me quaking in my hunting boots over their menacing talk and gestures about the prowess of their football club

They made me half recant my original statement that Notre Dame would knock their ears down, especially after Notre Dame disclosed the fact that with a better club than it showed Saturday it was only one scratch point better than the Army, which was only one touchdown better than Harvard, and even up with Yale. But now I can see that Mr. Kelly et al were probably talking about U. S. C.'s strength at mublety-peg, not football.

However, the game Saturday served to give us, at last, a better line than we have heretofore had on the relative merits of East-West-Middle West football for 1930.

It demonstrated that Pacific coast football has been slightly overdrawn in the matter of strength. Southern California was the second best football outfit on the coast this year, and it was smothered by a club that, off the only dope we have, the Army-Notre Dame game, is a shade above the eastern crowd as represented by Harvard, Yale and the Army.

Notre Dame "pointed," as we say on the campus, for the Army game probably more strongly than it "pointed" to the U. S. C. game, and took it at the very peak of its form, whereas the Army's aim had doubtless commenced to wobble a bit with Harvard and Yale behind it.

Trojans Have Chance to Do Well in Debating

This Notre Dame team is a good team, but it is not a super-team. If it were a super-team, it would have whipped the Army by more than one point. It is a well balanced, well coached outfit, made up of young men with the intelligence and enthusiasm characteristic of Notre Dame in football.

And while it is only a fraction better than the Eastern group of which the Army, Harvard and Yale are the chief representatives as the new "Big Three," it is better than the second best club on the Pacific Coast by about ten Salt Lake City blocks.

But I beg of Mr. Kelly and his associates to cheer up. All is not lost to the U. S. C. The collegiate debating season is about due, and if the Trojans number among them any young men approaching Mr. Kelly's personal magnetism, and vociferousness, they ought to have a big year.

ROWLAND SEEKS READING CLUB

New York, Dec. 9 (INS)—Clarence Rowland, former manager of the White Sox, was dickering today for the Reading (Pa.) club of the International league. Reading is owned by the Chicago Cubs, it being one of their two baseball "farms." The other is the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league.

Reading was announced for sale in Montreal last week by William L. Veeck.

Indications were that the "war" between the major leagues and the five non-draft minor leagues over the universal draft will be amicably settled within the next 48 hours.

Representatives of the National and American leagues have agreed to met with the non-draft leagues committee of nine tomorrow to discuss the situation.

It is believed both the majors and minors are convinced peace would be better than war.

No important player deals had been made. Many deals were reported in the making, including a trade of Willie Kamm, Chicago White Sox third baseman, for Lew Fonseca, Cleveland first baseman.

"Give us a good tight pennant race in the National League—and in the American League, too, for that matter—and baseball business will be fine in 1931. I am not worried at all about this talk of economic depression."

Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who has been active in baseball since 1892 and who has been through one big league "crisis" after another in the past 40 years, made this statement in an interview today.

Bruins and Maroons Clash at Garden Tonight

The Montreal Maroons and the Boston Bruins, old rivals in the National Hockey League, will have their first meeting of the season on Boston Garden ice tonight and both teams will enter the contest with full strength and confident of victory.

Old grudges, piled up in six years of fierce competition, always are in danger of being revived when the two hardest checking teams of the National League circuit are paired.

Maroons come here with the same great forward line of Nelson Stewart, Hooley Smith and Babe Seibert which has kept it in the race for years. The team has a high-powered second line in Trottier, Huggins and Ward while Johnny Gallagher, new defense player, comes here reported to be one of the coming stars of the game.

Garden Lineup

BRUINS	MAROONS
Galbraith, lw	rw, Smith
Barry, c	c, Stewart
Oliver, rw	lw, Seibert
Hitchman, ld	rd, Boucher
Shore, rd	ld, Wilcox
Thompson, g	g, Walsh

Bruins Spares: Darragh, Chapman, Gainor, Clapper, Harris, Welland, Pratt.

Game starts at 8:30.

Bruins in Fine Shape for Clash Tonight

Bruins will be able to face Maroons in much better condition than their first Boston meeting a year ago. Then Shore was out of the game, and Oliver, too, and the team was battered and worn from a hectic game with Maroons in Montreal. Boston fans saw the Bruins that night take the worst lacing they have received on Boston ice in years.

Every member of the Bruins squad is fit tonight, except possibly for Hal Darragh, fine right wing acquired from Philadelphia. Darragh worked out at the Garden when Manager Ross called a surprise practice session. Ross has not yet made up his mind as to the amount of work he will give Darragh, because he wants him to recover from a charley horse which has lamed him considerably.

Philadelphia Club Will Not Be Sold

Philadelphia, Dec. 9—The Philadelphia National League baseball club is not for sale, the management announced. Since the death last week of William F. Baker, president of the club, there has been speculation regarding the future ownership of the Phillies.

$10,000 Paid for Broadcast Rights

New York, Dec. 9—The National Broadcasting Company today turned over $10,000 to the New York American's Christmas fund for the privilege of broadcasting the featherweight championship fight Friday night between Bat Battalino and Kid Chocolate.

Oxford, Cambridge in Rugby Draw

Twickenham, England, Dec. 9 (AP)—The rugby football game between Cambridge and Oxford, which is the English equivalent of the Harvard-Yale football game, ended in a draw here this afternoon, both teams scoring three points.

MR. BOSTON

By

JACK CONWAY

I found Mr. Boston discussing the rules of wrestling with Leon Burbank, one of the best informed mat officials in the world.

Mr. Boston

"The fans are gaining a better understanding of the rules that govern wrestling," said Burbank.

"Few of the spectators are versed in all of the rules, but time will improve this condition.

"It is remarkable that the fans understand the rules as well as they do when it is considered that 90 per cent of the persons attending our contests today never witnessed an important bout until Gus Sonnenberg came to the front. Sonnenberg has made thousands of new fans everywhere he has shown.

"The excitement is intense at times during big matches. This often causes the referee to get a little the worst of it from those fans who do not know the rules. But that is all in the game.

At the time of the first Sonnenberg-Sherry bout there was considerable controversy over the deciding fall on account of the fact I broke the hold Sonnenberg had on the ropes. The rules required me to do so. Sherry knew this and so did his handlers.

"Sonnenberg, a quick thinker, was smart enough to take advantage of the situation.

Burbank Always Keeps on Move When in Ring

"I always like to see you refereeing," chirped Mr. Boston. "You step around at a lively clip and never appear to obstruct my vision of the ring."

"A good referee is never in the way of the fans," went on Burbank.

"There are thousands of college men now interested in wrestling. This is due to the Sonnenberg influence.

"This youngster, Lee Wyckoff of the University of St. Louis, is another former college star who looks as though he is going some place.

"Ed George, former Michigan star, has also displayed a world of natural ability in all of his contests.

"Fellows like Sonnenberg and George relied almost entirely upon their strength and courage when they started wrestling, but soon picked up the fine points of the game. I find that college men learn wrestling much quicker than those who come to the game equipped with only strength."

Fortunes Made Quickly in Wrestling Game

"I believe college men have displayed good judgment in taking up wrestling," asserted Mr. Boston. "It offers a profitable outlet for their natural athletic ability. The financial returns are big.

"In the case of Sonnenberg, he has made close to $300,000 as world's heavyweight champion. Gus stepped from a $50 a week job in an auto sales room in Providence into the wrestling game. One would have to sell quite a flock of autos to make $300,000.

"Sonnenberg is in Los Angeles today. He clashes with Ed George at a Lou Daro show tomorrow night. Lou used to promote in Boston, but heard the call of the Golden West.

"It will be Sonny's first start since he defeated Sherry at the Boston Evening American's Christmas Basket Fund show. He left a hospital in Albany to come to Boston to meet Sherry. Gus collapsed in a Back Bay Hotel the day following the match."

"When examined by Dr. Martin H. Spellman of Commonwealth Avenue it was found that Gus had a severe attack of grippe. Acting on the advice of Dr. Spellman, the champion called off three matches."

Lutz Captain of Tech Swimmers

Francis A. Lutz, '31, distance man on M. I. T. swimming team last year and outstanding candidate for the distance events this season, has been chosen captain, taking the place of Tyson Lykes who did not return this year.

The annual interclass meet will be held Dec. 17, at the University Club tank. The class captains elected are: Capt. F. A. Lutz, seniors; Walter D. Teague for juniors, and J. Turner, sophomores.

Cochet Ranked First in French Net List

Paris, Dec. 9—Henri Cochet, who shared the top position with Rene Lacoste in 1929, was ranked alone as the No. 1 tennis player of France. Lacoste, weakened by poor health, did not engage in competitive tennis this year.

The ranking list for 1930, as announced by the French Lawn Tennis Federation, follows: 1, Cochet; 2, Jean Borotra; 3, Christian Boussus; 4, Jacques Brugnon; 5, Edouard Duplax; 6, Antoine Gentien; 7-8, Pierre Landry and Edouard Rodel; 9-10-11, Paul B. de Ricou, Rene de Buzelet and Paul Feret.

Mme. Pene Mathieu is ranked first among French women players.

Trade Yankoski-Reise

London, Ont., Dec. 9 (AP)—The London Tecumsehs of the International Hockey League have traded Leo Reise to the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets for Steve Yankoski, star defense man.

You Should Have a Good Head of Hair

Nature provided your scalp and all other persons' scalps with the necessary structure to grow hair and keep it growing. Some specific scalp disorder such as dandruff, falling hair, or itching scalp has made it impossible for this hair-growing structure to function properly. The result has been thin hair or even complete baldness.

Thomas can overcome your scalp trouble and restore your scalp to a normal hair-growing condition. Sixteen years of successful application and thousands of satisfied clients prove the merit of this scientific treatment. Call at a Thomas office today for a free scalp examination. You, too, can have a good head of hair.

Mile Record May Go

LEO LERMOND IS DUE SAYS JACK RYDER

By BILL CONNELL

Interest in indoor track was revived today with the announcement of the 10th annual Knights of Columbus athletic meet, the William C. Prout Memorial games, which will be staged January 31 at the Boston Garden.

The announcement of the meet, sent out by Joseph M. Kirby, state deputy of the Knights of Columbus, states that the meet this year will be almost entirely an invitation affair.

Bill Connell

It is hoped that several European stars who have not previously appeared in this country, will compete. These include Ladoumegue of France and Ellis of England, a couple of fine milers. Seraphin Martin, also of France, is a half miler who might show in this country, the coming season.

Because 1932 is Olympic year, it is probable that most of the foreign amateur athletic associations will keep the athletes at home to work for the world games.

Foreign stars are not needed this this year, though, to make the season a success. For Leo Lermond of Nahant is back at home after a lot of traveling and is expected to be one of the shining stars of the indoor season.

Matched with Ray Conger and George Bullwinkle, Lermond might set a new mile record, in the K. of C. Invitation mile.

Ryder Predicts Lermond Will Set Mile Record

Jack Ryder, famous B. A. A. and Boston College coach, who "found" Lermond, says: "Leo Lermond has the ability to run a mile in four minutes, eight seconds, and so set up a record which may stand for all time. Leo is the greatest miler this country has ever had. If Leo runs as I hope he will this winter he will burn up the tracks."

At any rate, it is almost certain that Lermond will be one of the entries in the K. of C. mile feature.

It is a bit early to predict anything concerning any of the other stars. Fans would like to see Bernie McCafferty of Holy Cross show a return to his fine top form this winter, for he will be one of the K. of C. meet headliners in the William C. Prout Memorial 440.

McCafferty slumped at the close of last season from the strain of a lot of competition. He has rested since that time, is training now at Holy Cross and is confident that he will flash to his third successive win in the Prout quarter.

"GREATEST MILER"

Eddie Casey Is New Coach of Harvard Football

nor was captain and All-American center this past football season and will be graduated next June.

DUNNE GOES TOO

"Duke" Dunne, who was a line coach imported from the West by Horween, also passes out of the picture along with the retirement of Horween.

Horween stated before the Army game that it would be his last season across the Charles. The Boston Evening American learned, although not officially, at that time that Casey would be his successor.

Horween will be here Friday night for the victory smoker of Harvard graduates to be tendered at the Harvard Club.

Horween was given every inducement to stay, but found it urgent that he return to his leather business with his father in Chicago.

Harvard is following the policy of putting a graduate at the head of its football system. Horween has been the coach for the past five years. In that period Harvard has won three games from Yale.

Casey intends to follow quite closely the system incorporated at Harvard by Horween. He will make some changes, but no radical ones.

Casey is a native of Natick. He played high scholo football there and then prepped at Exeter. He quit school during the war to serve in the navy. At the close of the war he returned to Harvard and recevied his sheepskin with the class of 1919.

Since that time Casey has been active coaching. He was at Mountain Union, at Alliance in Ohio, then at Tufts and joined Harvard football as head freshman coach in 1926.

Casey is now 36 years of age and works in a local sporting goods store during the off season.

In his college football days he weighed but 140 pounds, but was considered one of the finest broken field runners and all-round football players that ever was seen on a college gridiron. He was on Walter Camps All-American in 1919.

Tad Jones May Quit Yale Grad Board

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 9 (INS)—Rumors of T. A. D. Jones' resignation from the Yale graduate football advisory committee, current here for two weeks, seemed today to have confirmation in the announcement that the Yale Athletic Association had adopted a rule forbidding any of its members to write for publication.

Yale athletic officials refused to comment on the rumor of Jones' resignation or on the report that he would be succeeded by Malcolm Aldrich, of New York, former football captain.

Penn Halfback Quits Grid Game

Philadelphia, Dec. 9 (AP)—Warren Gette of Philipsburg, Pa., halfback on the University of Pennsylvania football team, said today he was through with football at Penn.

Gette, a junior, was injured in the Notre Dame game and saw little actual playing after that.

The halfback was quoted as saying that the statement in the editorial appearing today in the Pennsylvanian, the student daily publication, that there was a lack of harmony between the players and coaching staff and that training rules were not strictly adhered to was true.

THE LAST MILE

By Lewis Allen Browne

CHAPTER 16

BART CULVER laughed at Ethel's eagerness.

"I've got to run Bart," she finally told him. "I've got about 15 minutes."

"When will I see you again?"

"Oh, when my regular boy friend passes me up again."

"Like that, eh? I'm second fiddle?"

"Be yourself, Bart—don't hand me such a line. You're a nice kid and a live one. I like you—but I've got a regular boy friend I wouldn't swap for anything. He's going to be married—that won't make any difference between us. Now, if you are a nice boy I'll see you quite a lot while he's away on his honeymoon—after that—not so often. You've got Viola."

"Oh, I've known Viola for years—knew her when her name was Fogarty, and she was just a chorus girl—say, did you ever see that letter 'N' tatooed on her, right there——"

"Viola? A letter N tattooed on her?"

Startles Her

Ethel did her best to keep cool and not let him suspect her shock and surprise.

"Sure—some fellow of hers did it, I'm sure, although she always told me it was a school-girl stunt—she and a girl friend putting each other's initials on each other—if you get what I mean."

"It probably was," Ethel said, but her mind was almost chaos—she never suspected that Viola and her Mert had been—like that. She wondered if he would ever try to throw her over as he had evidently done to Viola.

"Yeah? As if I'd believe it was a school-girl trick. I'm sure—"

His buzzer sounded.

"Shall I hide? I've got to get out quickly and get home," Ethel whispered.

"I'll see. If it's anyone we don't want I'll slip you out the servants door through the kitchenette."

He went into the foyer and opened the door.

It was Viola's voice.

"Hello there, Vi—come in and have a farewell drink with us," Bart said.

"Us. Who've you got——"

She had entered by this time and saw Ethel. To Ethel's surprise Viola didn't seem pleased. She glared at her.

"Look here, Ethel—I'm giving you free service in my beauty parlor, but I'm not sharing my boy friends with you——"

"Now, Viola—the little temper—keep it down. Remember you got in bad with that temper once, you nearly got the old hot seat——"

"Shut up, Bart—I'm not blaming you, but Ethel's got a whole lot of nerve to steal you away from me."

"Sore, are you," Ethel said, suddenly interrupting Viola, her temper, that at times she couldn't manage, beginning to seethe.

"Yes, I'm good and sore."

"So am I, and I can call you just as many true names as you can call me—and one more—I'm no murderess—"

"Ladies—ladies—we'll have a drink—"

Cocktail Breath

"You start beefing about me stealing your boy friend—that's a hot one." Ethel had walked up close to Viola. Bart expected to see scratching and hair-pulling.

"Me steal your boy friend, eh? Well, how about that?"

Ethel reached out and tore Viola's thin frock from her shoulder as if it was of tissue paper.

"How about that letter N—right there?"

Viola Forsaythe leaped back. She was frightened at the temper she saw in Ethel's eyes.

"Oh, come now—be reasonable—that was done long ago—before Mert ever——" she checked herself, "before the party ever heard of you—when you were running around at kindergarten—remember I'm five years older than you."

Viola was 10 years older, but it was rather generous to admit the five.

"Honestly?" Ethel asked, somewhat appeased.

"Sure."

"Oh, all right. Goodness I've got to beat it for home." She took some strong mints from her handbag and put them in her mouth.

"In case mother's up, I'd have a hard time trying to explain how I got a Bronx cocktail breath at a movie—see you soon, Viola!"

"All right, no hard feeling."

"First evening you're free, give me a ring dear. I'm wild about you," he whispered, slipping a card in her hand.

Sid Cavanaugh did his best, with sob-stuff from Elaine, whom he called, in his articles the "unmarried wife."

It was going hard with Mayor. His claim that he didn't bring a gun with him couldn't be substantiated. Furthermore, the girl, Elaine, had gone to Digley's rooms ahead of Mayor, by arrangement and it looked from the way the district attorney made it appear, as though he had secured a gun, trailed her and deliberately killed this man.

Jury Haggled

The jury haggled through one long night and half of the next day and then came in with a verdict of "Guilty." The jurymen tried to temper this with a recommendation for mercy. Perhaps the judge was crabbed, perhaps he didn't like the way the jury took so much time after his charge, which seemed to be all against poor Mayor.

In any event he ignored the recommendation and when the time came he sentenced Mayor to the chair!

It was then that Sid Cavanaugh sprung his big story—that Elaine the "unmarried wife" of Mayor, was to become an unmarried mother.

If, as already explained, either of these people had possessed wealth, or social position, it would have been a nine or 19-day front-page newspaper sensation. But Mayor was just a shipping clerk and Elaine was a "nobody" who lived with him without benefit of clergy; and so the case got only two days' front-page position.

Dick Walters, talking with Sid about it, expressed his surprise.

"I thought it had to be premeditated," he said.

"That's an elastic expression, Dick. Some hold that the premeditation of five minutes is sufficient. Then again, I've know where men toted a gat for weeks before they got a chance to bump their man—and they get out of it on a manslaughter charge."

"How about Mayor?"

"The charge was pretty steep, I though, and while he couldn't prove that he did not start out with a gun, the prosecution didn't prove that he did—and in theory a man is held innocent until proven guilty—yet the benefit of the doubt [illegible] against him—this, alone, w[illegible] help him—and if he can get a stay he may pull through. Yet, good God, Dick, hadn't you rather have it over with, with one swift jolt of the juice, than be cooped up in a cell for the rest of your life, or even for twenty years?"

I'll say I would! If I had my choice you bet I'd say, 'Let's have the chair rather than be behind bars all my days.'"

"The best Mayor can hope for is twenty, and even with time off it will be a mighty long stretch; he won't have much to live for even then, when he gets out."

Sid learned, right after this, that Mayor had sent for Elaine, as soon as he was sentenced, and married her.

That made a good news feature and Mayor's lawyer believed it would help him. To give Mayor credit, he didn't think of this at the time; he didn't want to leave Elaine without a name for the baby when it would be born.

Mayor, was taken to the State penitentiary and put in the death house, as are all prisoners condemned to death. Just as soon as Dick Walters was able to do so, he went up to see Mayor.

Instead of going around a half-square through long corridors and various offices and guardrooms, the guard assigned to be with Dick throughout his visit took him out and across a sort of court.

There were trellises bearing clusters of roses and green patches rimmed with flowers. The sun was shining and birds were on the high poles clustered with morning glories. Dick didn't realize the irony of it then, not until he went into a heavily barred and guarded room from which opened a massive door to the death house. Then he realized the nearness of the sunshine and grass and birds and flowers to the grim rows of cells where humans wait to be burned to death in a ghastly and massive contrivance, the invention of so-called civilized man.

Seven Condemned

The condemned men—there were seven in there then—were all in the odd-numbered cells. He asked, later, about this. He was told that they were put there so they couldn't see across at each other.

Mayor showed his gratitude for the visit.

"You'll probably get a stay—it looks favorable," Dick told him, explaining what Sid had said.

"I'm not so sure, but anyway, I did what was right by the girl and I can't ever half thank you and that Cavanaugh newspaper chap for getting Elaine the swell job."

"Is there anything you want me to do, Mayor?" Dick asked.

His chuckle was rather ghastly.

"Aw, what th' h—ll—I'll do th' last mile with a grin on my map—see if I don't."

"Last mile?"

"Sure, Mr. Walters—see the corridor—see the green door down there? The hot chair is back of that door—and they say that when a guy walks down to that door it's as long as a mile to him—his last mile." To h—ll with 'em. I'll do that last mile with a grin!"

Three Mothers Agree

When mother is tired, nervous or ill the whole home is upset. For her family's sake, every mother wants to be well and strong. These three women tell how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps them to care for their families.

Mrs. H. Dolhonde,
6318 York St.,
New Orleans, Louisiana

"Before my last baby was born, I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got such good results that I named her Catherine Lydia. I have six older children and five grandchildren, too. I am now taking the Vegetable Compound again because of my age. I eat and sleep better and I do all my housework, and my washing. I will do my best to answer letters."

Mrs. Harold Goodnow
36 Cane St.,
Fitchburg, Massachusetts

"I cannot praise your medicine enough. After my baby came I was rundown. I had to go to bed often through the day. I took three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I felt like a different woman. If any mother has those tired feelings I advise her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. Lloyd R. Blasing,
Anaheim, California

"After my baby came I was so nervous and tired that I felt miserable. One day a booklet was left at our door and after reading it I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now on my fourth bottle and I feel much stronger. It has helped me in every way and I feel sure that other women in rundown condition will pick up if they will only take a few bottles."

No more waiting! Chipso Granules give instant suds

Your neighbors are singing the praises of this new form of Chipso. Read what they say—

Mrs. F. E. P.—
"Most time-saving soap on the market"

"Chipso Granules give me all the suds I want, instantly and without any fuss and bother. And what suds they are! They seem to persuade the dirt right out of my clothes. With very little rubbing even the worst pieces are snowy-white. My hands have hardly been in water, it seems. What a time-saver this new kind of Chipso is!"

Mrs. L. W.—
"Marvelous quick suds soak out dirt"

"By the time you eliminate suds-making and hard rubbing," writes an Arlington user, "washday has very few terrors left! Since using Chipso Granules, my wash is done in about half the usual time. My clothes look wonderful. Colors especially are so safe in these rich gentle suds!"

"Washing so soon on line—no backache," writes Mrs. E. F. M. of Boston

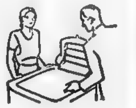
Lots of women don't realize how much time they spent fussing with soap and trying to make plenty of suds until they try Chipso Granules. The rich, creamy, instant suds that pile up when you turn the faucet are a revelation to you! These suds last and last, too—and what an advantage that is! They stand right up and work through two or three tub-loads of clothes and through pile after pile of dishes. You'll be amazed at the time you save with Chipso Granules!

Mrs. A. L. C.—
"Couldn't run my washing machine without Chipso"

"The other day I ran out of Chipso while doing a big wash. I used another soap I had on hand—but the difference in the appearance of the clothes soon decided me that it would be worthwhile to put off the rest of the washing until I could get more Chipso. I understood then why the salesman had said 'Always use Chipso for best results with this machine.'"



Mrs. E. S. G.—
"Suds—till every dish is washed"

"When I use Chipso Granules for washing dishes, I never have to keep adding more to keep the water soft, as with other soaps," writes a Melrose Highlands user. "I get such lovely suds instantly, and they stay there even though plates and pans are unusually greasy. Dishes just wash themselves; saving my hands a lot."

Logan Begs Wilda Not to Go to Europe

HOW THE STORY STARTS

Wilda Gardner, bookkeeper in a hardware store, is in love with Logan Townsend, who "has not spoken yet."

He is no Adonis, Wilda thinks, but he has a rare smile. This smile also attracts Bess Avery, a stenographer in an office near Logan's. Wilda's mother, Garcie, has been strangely distracted since the father died. He is understood to have left much money and she plans to leave the poor little cottage in which they live in Boston and get in touch with a richer life. Wilda goes to house party where she meets Logan and he tells his love.

By MAY CHRISTIE
(Copyright [illegible])

AH! DIDN'T she remember Carol's party! Myrtle Gleeson sitting for what seemed like hours out on the swing-couch with Logan in the garden . . .

Her own misery and jealousy! The wretched fracas of that evening! Like a series of moving pictures the events of Carol's party flashed across her brain.

"I had a rotten time," he went on. "When I fairly dragged you away from the wild bunch, you gave me a flat turn-down. Do you remember?"

Did she? But never let him n[illegible] her jealous pain.

"I was a fool. Won't you forget it?"

He whispered, his lips close to her ear:

"I've got you now for keeps. Haven't I, Wilda?"

And the little stream beside them tinkled sweetly and sympathetically.

Love Made Them One

They were alone on [illegible] these two [illegible] their love making them one with the flowering trees, with the warm and heady beauty of the Summer's evening.

He whispered in her ear enchanting things. Dear phrases that her very soul had been parched for.

It was as though living water flowed into her heart. Where once it had been arid, dry, it now bloomed like an oasis.

"There's never really been anybody but you!"

Oh! Magic utterance that he whispered.

Never awake! Oh! Stay like this, in his dear arms, for an eternity . . .

"Look up! Speak to me, darling!"

But words caught in her throat, almost suffocating her.

"Tell me"—his voice was very tender—"that you love me as much as I love you—"

Not for a moment!

He drew her under the trees, out of the radius of the moon, so that they were wrapped around with darkness. More isolated now they were. About them rose the high throbbing song of crickets.

He caught her hands and [illegible] them turning the palms upward. He wound her arms about his neck, pulling her nearer to him.

PARKED CARS TO BEAR 'NO TAG' SLIP

Rev. Dr. Conrad Expresses Belief Police Are Trying to Aid All Congregations

Regardless of the controversy between the bulk of members of the traffic commission and Commissioner Joseph A. Conry, Park St. Church parishioners will continue to rely on special stickers to protect their cars from parking tags, it was learned today.

George Watson, head of the prudential committee of the church, [illegible] that unless some police official notified them of it all [illegible] members of the church would park with the protecting sticker on their cars next Sunday.

Watson expressed the opinion that the whole affair was a tempest in a teapot, [illegible] that no one using the stickers last Sunday was tagged or molested by the police.

Rev. A. Z. Conrad, pastor of the church, disclaimed knowledge of the matter, but said it was his opinion the Traffic Commission had extended the privilege, not only to his church but to all situated within restricted parking areas.

"I think the authorities realize that the churches are very important," he said, "and are desirous of doing everything possible to help people who attend them."

Making the Most of Today's Dollar

Many Buyers Need Advice; Trained Sales Force Would Help

(The sixteenth of a series of interviews with Massachusetts women leaders giving their suggestions to those who buy goods and to those who sell them, concerning their mutual and vital problem of [illegible] full value in every particular for every dollar spent. The seventeenth will appear in tomorrow's issue of the Evening American.

In these times of stress and strain on the nerves, I often wonder how many women stop to think of the health of the breadwinner.

MRS. EMMA FALL SCHOFIELD

A wage earner who works under a mental strain, as thousands do, needs relaxation and perfect rest at home as much as food, as a matter of health insurance.

It is economy in the long run for the housewife to see that the man of the family has as beautiful and attractive home as they can afford, in which to rest after work hours—an easy chair, under a nice lamp, or a couch to stretch out on, books and music to take his mind from his business cares.

If merchants could show women more extensively how vital a comfortable mattress, for instance, is to the health of their husbands and children as well, and how refrigeration, and other things they might regard as luxuries are really investments in health insurance, no woman would hesitate to provide these things in the home.

Real economy includes keeping the family well.

We go out to shop and we want to do the best we can but we don't always know how to buy.

If we need a hat, perhaps, we would all welcome an expert who is trained to fit hats to individual types of faces, a hat that would bring out personality. It would be better for us and better for the stores if we left without any hat at all than with an unbecoming model that some clever salesgirl was interested in selling.

I have often thought that a millinery authority would fill a long felt need, for so many women do not know what is becoming to them and if they discover they have the wrong hat they are unhappy and dissatisfied with that particular purchase and that particular store.

Yes, we want to spend wisely but we need sensible, interested counsel to do it.

(44 cash prizes, aggregating $550, are offered to college attendants, members of the Women's Trade Union League, retail store employes and office workers, for the best, brief letters commenting on any ten articles in this series. Baby Death Rate Reduced by Science

Boston's decrease of 50 per cent in infant mortality in the past 30 years was credited to preventive research today by Dr. Charles E. Wilinsky, deputy commissioner of health.

Dr. Wilinsky addressed the members of the campaign committee of the Good Samaritan Hospital Fund, seeking $500,000 for the establishment of a research department in rheumatic heart disease, at a luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce. He spoke on behalf of Mayor Curley, who was unable to attend.

It was announced that $146,353 had been subscribed toward the fund up to date.

SENATE LEADER ACTS TO SIMPLIFY STATE BALLOT PHRASEOLOGY

BACON WOULD AID VOTERS AT POLLS

Seeks Special Commission for Investigation in Move to Amend Constitution

Voters who have puzzled—sometimes in vain—over tangled phraseology in referendum questions on the ballot will have their brains relieved hereafter, if a move by President Gaspar G. Bacon of the Senate is completed.

President Bacon today filed a [illegible] on his own petition for an investigation by a special commission, with a view to amending the constitution for the purpose of simplifying questions on the ballot so they will be more understandable to voters.

A commission of seven members would be named under terms of the Bacon measure. One Senator would be appointed by the Senate president, three representatives would be named by the speaker of the House, and the other three members would be selected by the Governor.

STUDY OF INITIATIVES

It is provided that the commission shall take up not only the constitutional changes required to do away with the cumbersome, confusing and often misleading wording of questions submitted to the voters, but also shall make a study of the entire initiative and referendum section of the constitution with intent of eliminating various inconsistencies.

President Bacon pointed out today the style of certain questions as they appeared on the ballot at the recent election has produced "an acute realization of the need of reverting to more sensible use of language if voters are expected to be able to exercise their judgment."

He said

WEAKNESSES CITED

"The recent election brought forcibly to the attention of the people the weakness of the Massachusetts initiative and referendum. The average person who took the trouble to go to the polls last month, with every desire to cast an intelligent vote, was handed a ballot containing several questions, most of which were so difficult to understand he either turned away in despair without voting on said questions or he marked his cross with no confidence that he had voted as he desired to.

"Even the chairman of one of our Boston ward committees confided to me with considerable chagrin that he had become so confused over the wording of the Baby Volstead question he had voted contrary to his wishes.

"The present system of wording questions on the ballot is unsatisfactory and should be changed. It must be simplified. In order to do so the constitution must be amended, for the initiative and referendum are governed by prescribed provisions of the constitution."

125 Mayors Favor Increased Compensation for War Vets

A campaign to have the government increase compensation paid to war veterans and pay its rightful share toward support of widows and dependents of veterans, was begun today at City Hall.

At a meeting presided over by Mayor Curley 125 mayors, selectmen and soldiers' relief department representatives from cities and town of Massachusetts voted unanimously for a new veterans' act and for three amendments to the present veterans' act

The new act would have the Government bear the burden of supporting widows and dependent children of veterans.

The first amendment would have present rates of compensation increased as follows: The 25 per cent disability veterans now receiving $12 a month would get $20, the 50 per cent disability veterans receiving $18 would get $30; the 75 per cent disability men receiving $24 would get $40, and the 100 per cent disability veterans who now receive $40 a month would get $50.

Through the second proposed amendment, compensation paid to blind or helpless veterans who require regular aid and attendance of another person, would be increased by a further allowance of $72 a month

Mayor Curley announced Boston was willing to assume the burden of pushing the fight in Congress.

STOCK BROKER LOSES LICENSE

On complaint of Harry Elmer Barnes, former professor of economics and sociology at Smith College, Samuel Meyers's stock broker-age license was revoked and cancelled today by the State Public Utilities Commission

According to the Commission Barnes, who has been in the limelight of publicity for several years because of [illegible] became [illegible] several [illegible] in transactions with Meyers and two companions.

This appears to be a very serious case of [illegible] the finding handed down today by John C. Hull, director of the securities division of the Public Utilities Commission

Mr. Hull also referred the evidence to Atty.-Gen. Joseph E. Warner for such action as he may wish to take

The finding says that one Samuel H. Cohen under the assumed name of Samuel Simon induced Barnes to exchange 10 shares of the Merchants Acceptance Corp., valued at $1700 for 1500 shares common stock of the Intermountain Power & Water Co., the fair value of which was from six to eight cents a share

The next [illegible] one Jules A. Perrault and Meyers induced Barnes to purchase [illegible] additional shares of the Intermountain securities for $2500.

DRIVER HELD IN GIRL'S DEATH

Judge Fullerton of Dedham District Court today recommended that Wallace Bais, Brighton ave., Allston, be held for manslaughter in the death of Mildred D. Wanders, 24, 11½ Spring Park ave., Jamaica Plain

In his report of inquest filed in Norfolk Superior Court Judge Fullerton declared the death of Miss Wanders Thanksgiving day in an automobile [illegible] in Dedham was caused by [illegible]

Miss Wanders, Frances E. Flynn of 63 [illegible] ave. and Miss Mae Mulvey, 20 of 101 Carolina ave. Jamaica Plain, all occupants of Bais' automobile, were returning from a "party" and "all had taken a certain amount of intoxicating liquor," Judge Fullerton declared

"In my opinion," Judge Fullerton said, "such reckless driving warrants the probable cause for a charge of manslaughter against Bais and at the close of the inquest I directed such a charge, as well as the lesser charge of driving so as to endanger life and while intoxicated."

3-Year-Old Mistake Lops 10 Years Off Jail Sentence

Correcting an error made three years ago and just discovered, Judge Fosdick in Superior court today lopped of 10 years off a sentence of 25 years in state prison which had been given Robert J. Davidson, formerly of Commonwealth ave.

Davidson in December 1927 was sentenced to 15 years for larceny of $13,000 from the Standard Oil Co. of New York, by whom he was employed, and 10 to 20 years for larceny of $7 [illegible] from Hayes & Co. [illegible] worked.

The second sentence was to follow after he had served the first, so his total term was 25 to 35 years.

Davidson recently applied for parole and a parole board clerk discovered only one out of 11 counts in the Hayes case was a felony

Under the law, the sentence therefore should have been three to five years and Judge Fosdick, who sat on the case originally, in correcting the error, ordered the [illegible] concurrently [illegible]

HEAVY VOTING MARKS 12 ELECTIONS

EIGHT MAYORS BEING PICKED AT POLLS

Hotly Contested Campaigns Bring Out Big Ballot; Larkin Takes Lead

Hotly contested campaigns in Medford, Melrose and Malden, three of 12 cities in which municipal elections are being held, brought out heavy votes at the opening of the polls today.

Mayors are being elected in the three cities, together with Beverly, North Adams, Revere, Westfield and Woburn. Off year elections are being held in Chicopee, Everett, Lawrence and Newton, the balloting marking the final voting of the year.

ONE-YEAR TERMS.

In Medford, where the polls opened at 6 o'clock, to close at 8 p. m., candidates were to be elected for only one year, as a result of the recent adoption of a referendum.

There were contests for all but two offices, alderman-at-large and school committee.

Chief interest centered in the mayoralty fight with Mayor Edward H. Larkin seeking a third term, opposed by ex-Alderman Donald N. Sleeper. Early balloting showed Mayor Larkin maintaining the lead.

With no municipal primaries in Melrose, there were four candidates for mayor. The present incumbent Albert M. Tibbetts is seeking re-election for a fourth term, opposed by Frank C. K[illegible], Robert A. Perkins and John P. Rufle.

NEIGHBORHOOD FIGHT

As Perkins, Rufle and Mayor Tibbetts are neighbors, [illegible] interest was lent to their campaigns, with the result that a large number of voters were on hand when the polls opened at seven o'clock, to close at eight p. m.

There were four aldermen-at-large to be elected, with eight candidates, of whom one is Mrs. Irene A. O'Donnell, newspaper woman. Thirteen candidates are seeking five school committee positions and there are 15 candidates for the positions of seven ward aldermen. An important referendum to be voted on is the question of whether the aldermen shall receive pay.

Malden, with polls open from eight to eight, recorded its usual average morning vote, the heavy balloting always taking place in the afternoon.

MAYORALTY FIGHT.

Everett has an off-year, with no mayoralty election, and only an average vote was recorded during the morning hours. Elections are for one year this year with officials elected for two years in 1931.

A light early vote was reported in Newton. There are two aldermanic contests.

Mayor Andrew A. Casassa of Revere is opposed by James J. [illegible] of that city.

In [illegible] a record vote for an off-year election was predicted.

Mayor Philip Gallagher is opposed for reelection in Woburn by Hermann P. Peterson. In Beverly former Senator James A. Torrey and [illegible] are contesting [illegible] and in North Adams John Morrissey is opposed [illegible] Mayor William John[illegible] [illegible] reelection.

A heavy vote was reported in Woburn where Mayor Philip H. Gallagher was expected to win re-election over Hermann P. Peterson and in Beverly the vote was running ahead of the State election, with [illegible] per cent polled by 11 o'clock.

ACCIDENT FEES IN NEW PLAN

A bill to repeal the present compulsory automobile insurance law and to substitute a new system of accident fees was filed today at the State House by Armand C. B[illegible] of Newton.

Another bill by Rep. Roland Sawyer of Ware would wipe the same statute off the books with no stated substitute.

Private passenger cars $16 with an additional fee of $1 per passenger rated seating capacity.

Busses, public passenger cars, taxis, driverless cars, $30 with an additional fee of $2 per passenger rated seating capacity. The added fee, however, would not apply to busses used exclusively for hotel, school or clubs.

Commercial vehicles, trucks and trailers, $30, with additional fee of $5 per ton rated capacity. Farm trucks used exclusively around territory adjoining owner's property would pay $10, with an additional fee of $1 per ton rated carrying capacity.

POLICE BATTLE ARMED BANDIT IN ALLEY

After a search of more than five months, two special policemen this morning overpowered an armed burglar who, authorities believe, is the brains of a gang of drug addicts responsible for a series of drug store robberies in Greater Boston.

Acting on an underworld tip, Special Policeman Joseph Hart and Gordon Douglass went to an alley off Northampton st., between Tremont st. and Shawmut ave., where they surprised Jack King, 27, of Houston, Tex.

OVERPOWERED IN FIGHT

As Hart and Douglass entered the alley from opposite ends, King attempted to draw a loaded revolver, but was overpowered after a stiff struggle, the officers stated.

Taken to the Back Bay police station, King admitted breaking and entering the Church of the Redemption, Boylston and Ipswich sts., Back Bay, June 13, where he stole $160 in cash and checks, according to the police. He also admitted he was wanted in New York, Chicago and various cities in the South.

It was one of the checks stolen in the church robbery that placed police on King's trail.

CHECK IS TRACED

The check, made out to the church by Miss Ethel M. Hughes, of Minnesota, had cleared the exchange and had been returned to Miss Hughes, who became curious about the identity of "Francis Allen" and "Mable E. Coles," who had endorsed the check. Hart and Douglas located Allen and Miss Coles, who identified King. They told police he had given the check in payment for merchandise.

King admitted he associated with a gang of drug users, but refused to reveal their names. He will be arraigned today on the charge of possessing a loaded revolver and carrying burglar tools.

PROGRESS FETE PLANS RUSHED

In order that there may be no delay in the preparation of Columbia Park, South Boston, for the New England States Century of Progress Exposition to be held there from June 15 to July 16, 1931, City Treasurer Edmund L. Dolan today made plans to raise $200,000 among business men of the city to underwrite the affair.

More than 3,000,000 feet of lumber already has been ordered for construction of buildings. This work will provide employment for 350 men for several months.

To date $92,000 has been pledged by Boston business men and this money is to be collected immediately. It is expected the remaining $108,000 will be collected within the next three weeks.

Of this sum Mayor Curley is to raise $10,000 and similar amounts will be raised by leaders in the various businesses and professions of the city.

Fireman Overcome in Somerville Fire

A fireman was overcome by smoke and several others narrowly escaped injury by falling debris when a $10,000 fire swept the one-story wood and brick building at 233-237 Elm st., West Somerville early today.

Lieut. James Spike of Engine 6 was overcome and was rescued by brother firemen. The fire started in the basement and spread to the Colonial Food Store, Leroy Dress Shop, Downyflake Doughnut Company shop, Wilson's Toy Shop, and Morton's delicatessen store on the ground floor.

Police blame an overheated furnace.

Boston-Bound Ship Eight Days Overdue

Grave fears for the safety of the British schooner Utilla, carrying lumber from Weymouth, N. S., to Portsmouth, N. H., and Boston navy yards, were felt today when the schooner was eight days overdue.

The schooner left Weymouth Nov. 17. Since then she has not been heard from by the lumber owners, the Godfrey Lumber Co. of Boston and Nova Scotia. Eight men were on board.

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

NOW COMES the Theater Guild, and with it an Oklahoma folk play called "Green Grow the Lilacs." For the first of its seasonal advances into these regions the Guild has adopted an American author and, with all hands on deck at the Tremont last evening, undertook to unravel a strictly native drama. As Mr. Lynn Riggs is supposed to have once lived in the territory upon which he writes so fluently, we are driven to the conviction that those must have been his melancholy years.

IN "GREEN GROW THE LILACS" you were brought face to face with nearly all the surface aspects of the good old New England rural play; not all of them, but many. If you missed Denman Thompson's barnyard quartet, you could find solace in the cowboy and cowgirl ensemble—all in good voice and willing to sing. I may be well to remind you that Mr. Riggs's play is about Oklahoma of the days when cattle and farms—not oil—held the natives close to the ground.

Nicholas Young

And so, to start the evening, you found yourself at the Williams farm—they didn't even call it a ranch. Then the characters, in familiar dress and speech, paraded before you. They were the cowboy, the cowgirl, the comedy aunt and all the rest of the folk of this over-stretched neighborhood. Boys and girls came from miles around to fill the Tremont stage.

WHAT STARTED out like a pleasant little romance of fine prospects, wasted not a minute in getting into the sterner stuff which, we are told, distinguishes the strong drama from the weak. In the meantime a good deal of very loose talk by the principal bad man was picked up and amplified by the rank and file, and before the show was more than one-third along in its stormy course, your ears were burning—that is, [illegible] ears. Not only that—the friendly cowpunchers took embarrassing liberties with the new bride and groom, hauled them from their nuptial chamber and tossed them on a haystack in the middle of a pasture. Out of this odd bit of honeymooning came the death of the play's bad man. He fell squarely upon his own knife, which had been, of course, drawn for no good purpose. In the interest of good drama, however, the intended victim was carted off to jail.

THERE WAS SCENIC ATMOSPHERE to "Green Grow the Lilacs" that appeared almost as if it had been thrown in for good measure, not the last of which was a sort of subsidiary curtain in the form of a picketed fence that swung upward in two sweeping arcs. Of the toiling actors, who fretted through their first night with a new play, we should say that Richard Hale made a thorough job of his prescribed dirty work, and that Helen Westley, as the humorous Aunt Ella, was completely at home in a comfortable role. June Walker and James Patterson divided what was left between themselves; one as the serenading cowboy, the other a bewildered girl who became fearfully upset when dragged out into the moonlight in her cotton nightgown.

"GREEN GROW THE LILACS" bears all the outward manifestations of a Theater Guild production. It has been amply staged; its actors display precision, as well as knowledge of what is demanded of them. The settings are unique, there being a perfect intermingling, and interchanging, of exteriors with interiors. For once in your life you may remain both inside and outside the four walls of a house at the same time. And if you must take the author's word for it, this spirited play represents a territorial section where honeymooning is just naturally one of the pleasure's major hazards.

"Ladies All" to Open at Majestic Dec. 23

Walter Woolf and Violet Heming in the American version of Prince Bibesco's new comedy, "Ladies All," originally announced for the Wilbur, will open at the Majestic instead, on Tuesday, Dec. 23.

He Plays a Trump Card

KATHARINE CORNELL AND HARVEY STEVENS

"DISHONORED LADY" brought Katharine Cornell to the Wilbur stage last night and she is shown in a scene from the play with Harvey Stevens.

'JAZZ BABIES' GAYETY HIT

With Gertrude Ralston occupying the spotlight there was colorful entertainment in "The Jazz Babies," which opened yesterday at the Gayety. The audience went on record as being heartily in favor of the offerings of the brown-haired ingenue and she was recalled several times.

Thelma Carlton and Dorothy A'Hearn offered specialties. They surpassed expectations as leaders of the snappy chorus. In "Damaged Goods" there was a barrel of fun. Bert Bertrand, Harry S. LeVan and Bob Snyder kept the comedy ball a-rolling.

Earl Meyers and Bobby Leonard offered unique work, while the vaudeville team of Joe and [illegible] had whirlwind dances. There was a wide variety of features. Holub's Jazz Hounds added to the fun with new numbers.

OLD SONGS ON PROGRAM

Vera Maconochie

Miss Waller and Miss Maconochie have struck an original note in their concert which they describe as "Old Song Pictures." They will sing old songs in appropriate costumes and will be accompanied by Miss Hilda Pitcairn, piano. Miss Gwen Me[illegible] and George Willoughby [illegible]. The costumes were created by Miss Barbara Winthrop and fit the period and psychology of the music.

FAVORITES AT HOWARD

A [illegible] show that caught the fancy of Old Howard patrons is presented by the famous "Powder Puff" burlesque company. Two favorites were Jean Williams and Irving Selig. The former is a dancing star of beauty while Mr. Selig is an original comedian. The comedy is witty and up-to-date.

Madge Brandon, chic and lively; the Boylans, and "Mickey" Mays, a violinist as well as vocalist, scored. One of the big scenes offered "The Silver Garden," with the girls in a mechanical ballet. George Kinnear and Harry Allen were in the cast. Lou Powers was funny in his role.

In addition to the burlesque, the Howard management offered an entertaining vaudeville and picture bill. The Ben Tahar Troupe; Rogers and Wynn, and two Lowell boys, Delgman and Ball, delighted. Pictures included "Caught Short" and "The Melody Man." The usual midnight show will be presented Friday.

Coming Events

"Ladies All," starring Walter Woolf and Violet Heming, is announced for the Majestic, starting Tuesday, December 23.

"Strictly Dishonorable" will be the next attraction at the Colonial, opening Thursday, December 25.

Bernard Shaw's "The Apple-cart" will take the stage at the Tremont on Monday, December 29.

Grace George in "The Second Mrs. Fraser" will move into the Plymouth on Monday, December 29.

CECIL DE MILLE TO START 'SQUAW MAN' FILM SOON

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.

Los Angeles, Dec. 9—Cecil de Mille, who has been in the hospital for some weeks recovering from an appendix operation, will soon be back on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot making definite plans for "The Squaw Man." Who do you think will play the role that made William Faversham famous? Three guesses! Warner Baxter has been borrowed from the Fox company. Negotiations have just been completed.

I doubt very much if Lila Lee will be able to play the feminine lead. She will not be dismissed from the sanitarium until the first of February and her physicians insist that she rest for some months after she leaves Arizona. I had a gay letter from Lila this week in which she says she is feeling better every minute and she is counting the days until she gets back to Hollywood and to her friends.

MANY NEW NAMES have appeared on the screen during 1930. One of them is that of Clark Gable, the young man who played one of the leading roles in the stage version of "The Last Mile." Mr. Gable has just been signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer on a long term contract. His first picture is "The Secret Six," and I am told that he is to have the lead. Whenever we hear of a young man starting out with a chance like that we unconsciously think of Robert Montgomery. Within a year that lad has forged to the front. To me he is one of the most promising of the juvenile crop of actors who have registered this past season.

TRAVELING AROUND the studios we find that the Fox company has put Courtney Terrett to work to write an original destined to co-star Spencer Tracy and John Wayne. I am curious about John Wayne. What will happen to him? Will he pass into oblivion with the hundreds of other youngsters who have started with a big flash and ended nowhere, or will he do a Gary Cooper and register? Of course, experience is valuable and the more pictures he has the better he will be.

Ralf Harolde, who is now recognized as a celluloid menace to be reckoned with, will have one of the principal roles in "Kept Husbands." He is probably the guy that spends the wife's money. Irene Dunn, who, by the way, is one of the most comely young women who has come to Hollywood in a long time, will play opposite Sherman Lowell in "Bachelor Apartments," also at R. K. O.

I AM GETTING IN a very gossipy mood these days. I hear a thing and it interests me and the first thing I know I am sitting at my typewriter and telling the world. At luncheon the other day someone told me Gloria Swanson was trying her best to buy "Caprice," the play in which Fay Bainter scored a success. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer owns the rights and Gloria is negotiating with them.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: JOHN CONSIDINE, JR., entertaining a number of high powered executives at the Mayfair Club dance, with SOL WURTZEL, JEANETTE LOFF, MR. and MRS. W. K. HOWARD and ELISSA LANDI in the party. IRVIN WILLAT and KATHERINE ALBERT at the Mayfair dancing together. JOAN CRAWFORD and DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, JR. at another table entertaining GLORIA SWANSON, MR. and MRS. RICHARD BARTHELMESS, GENE MARKEY, MARY PICKFORD and DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS. KNUTE ROCKNE, famous football coach, a guest of the ALLEN DWANS at the Mayfair. FLORENCE VIDOR in Hollywood with her husband, JASCHA HEIFETZ, greeting old friends. An enterprising young gas station owner by the name of MULLER, announcing NOAH PERRY and all other stars through a loud speaker when they drive into his garage. JOSEPH H. MOSKOWITZ, personal representative of JOSEPH SCHENCK, returning to New York after a business trip to Hollywood. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

'Dishonored Lady' at the Wilbur

Katharine Cornell in "Dishonored Lady" began a two weeks' engagement at the Wilbur last night. She faced a friendly and enthusiastic audience. The play is by Margaret Ayer Barnes and Edward Sheldon and tells the grim story of a girl who poisons her lover in order to escape his control of her body and soul. The scenes are laid in New York city. Miss Cornell's supporting cast includes Charles Francis, Paul Harvey, S. Herbert Braggiotti, Harvey Stephens, Fred L. Tiden and Ruth Fallows. "Dishonored Lady" will be reviewed in Wednesday's Boston Evening American.

COSSACKS IN NEW TRIUMPH

By MOSES SMITH

The Don Cossacks Russian Male Chorus, that extraordinary organization now on its first American tour, gave a second concert in Symphony Hall last night.

The Cossacks, under their skillful leader, Serge Jaroff, master of showmanship as well as of men singers, stimulated these reactions by a repetition of their remarkable performance of three weeks ago. The most sensitive listener, realizing the lack of artistic subtlety in their singing, could not but admire the power and beauty of the voices, their unusual tonal variety, their mastery of every dynamic shading, from the faintest whisper of a pianissimo to a roaring fortissimo, their uncanny precision of attack and release of phrase.

Above all, one was thrilled by the primitive urge of this art, if art it is, by the temperament and color recognized as characteristically Russian (at least so far as we know it).

'MIN AND BILL' FEATURE AT ORPHEUM

Lorna Moon, whose novel, "Dark Star," served as the basis for "Min and Bill," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's co-starring comedy drama for Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery, now at Loew's Orpheum, never lived to see her story depicted on the talking screen.

The novel was written when the author was flat on her back in a sanatorium in the last stages of tuberculosis. The book became a success overnight, but Miss Moon never recovered from her illness. Shortly after its publication, she wrote an article called "How It Feels to be an Invalid," which appeared in a magazine and in which she satirically described her sensations and her viewpoint on being ill.

She died shortly after the announcement was made that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer had purchased the book and so was unable to see its adaptation as a talking picture. Miss Moon was author of another novel, "Windows in Drumorty," and of a large number of short stories.

FREED STEALS THE SHOW AT SCOLLAY

Carl Freed, internationally famous orchestra leader, steals the show at the Scollay this week. His funny antics in leading his orchestra created roars of laughter from a capacity audience.

While the vaudeville abounds in a plentiful variety of singing and dancing, comedy is the key note of the bill. The Kle[illegible] Brothers, Al and Harry, stop the show with their hilarious "Ketch Ketch" skit, and come on for three encores.

It seems to be a habit at the Scollay to start the stage show off with a bang, and this week's opener is no exception. Bernice and Foran begin snappily, and aided by the "Scollayettes" put on a football dance routine that is novel and entertaining.

In number two spot, Morgan and Sheldon do exceptionally well. This is followed by a most impressive number called "The Scalp Dance" in which the "Scollayettes" assisted by Bennie Fairbanks and Frances Hart, shine. Miss Hart is a clever performer.

Bennie Fairbanks, now in his fifth week as Scollay master of ceremonies, is more popular than ever.

Mrs. Frank Stetson Entertains Many at Afternoon Bridge

MRS. FRANK STETSON, WHO has recently taken an apartment on Beacon st., and will remain in Boston for the winter that her sub-debutante daughter may attend Miss Winsor's School, gave a bridge tea yesterday. Mrs. Stetson is the sister of Mrs. Charles Barnard Prince, who has two attractive daughters, Miss Priscilla and Miss Justine.

THE LUNCHEON FOR THE various committees of the Good Samaritan Hospital fund will meet again today at the Chamber of Commerce for another check-up. Mrs. Alexander Grant will preside.

MRS. FREDERICK J. BRADLEE of Boston is passing a few days at the Weylin Hotel in New York.

MRS. FREDERICK WINTHROP is giving a dinner party before the next "Friday evening" for her sub-debutante daughter, Miss Dorothy, who will return from Foxcroft School for the holidays.

THE SECOND OF THE DINNER dances at Buckingham Hall in Cambridge will take place Saturday evening.

THIS EVENING AND TOMORROW evening the performance of "Cinda," a Negro folk play, will be presented at the Elizabeth Peabody House by the Allied Arts Players.

In Season's Deb Group

MISS CHARLOTTE LYMAN, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lyman, will attend the dance given by the Charles Hardings at the Ritz-Carlton for their niece, Miss Harriet Blake, tomorrow evening. Miss Lyman was recently elected to the Vincent Club.

Ex-Harvard Dean Feted

LeBaron Russell Briggs, the man who is known as "the father of Harvard athletics," was guest last night at the weekly dinner at Lowell House, Harvard House unit.

Prof. Briggs, who became emeritus in 1925, was dean of Harvard College from 1891 to 1902 and dean of the faculty of arts and sciences of Harvard College from 1902 to 1925. For a number of years he was director of athletics at Harvard and he was largely responsible for the friendly athletic relations existing between Harvard and other universities.

Pres. R. B. Ogilby of Trinity College and Dr. Francis Parkman, headmaster of St. Mark's School, were also guests.

Sunday Movies Hit by Brookline Pastors

A petition was received at the weekly meeting of the Brookline board of selectmen, signed by 12 Protestant ministers of the town, asking the board to refuse Sunday licenses for moving picture theaters.

This is the first petition that has come to the board since the town voted at the state election to have moving pictures.

Paris and London Send Their Best

By ANN ARDEN

IT IS considered quite the smart thing in younger circles to have one's best coat sail over from London or Paris. Famous houses that are the Patou or Chanel of the youthful mode offer diminutive fashions of superlative tailoring and charm. And as in older fashions, the smartest imported models are reproduced over here for a fraction of the cost of originals.

LITTLE details rather than any drastic changes in silhouette herald a new season in the younger coats. As in frocks, brevity and simplicity are considered best form. Furs are modestly used but with great effectiveness.

SEVERAL charming coats for little girls between kindergarten naivette and the first sophistications of high school are suggested.

FOR THE rather older young person of 10 years, Billioque of Paris sends a trimly fitted and buttoned coat with upstanding fur collar, and a nice seamed yoke effect. This same children's couturier sends over any number of other coats, each with the same careful detail. Another demure straightline coat for a small lass has been used to emphasize an unusual neckline. Matching hat and leggings complete this ensemble. Capes are always very much in the younger fashion picture. A perky flaring cape tops a very simply designed model and is detachable. Again beaver makes the collar. Beret and leggings come to match. When we are very young, a hat and coat ensemble from London is an event.

AND ESPECIALLY so if it has the dash and military trigness of the coat pictured. A replica of a British Guardsman's coat, it is worn by the small sons and daughters of the Guardsmen, with great pride and swagger. Of navy blue wool, it is double breasted, and belted, fastened with brass buttons, and boasts two hip pockets. The small shoulder and wrist straps and edge of turnover, close-fitting collar are bound in red. The coat body is lined in red wool, sleeves and shoulders in silk.

THE GUARDSMAN'S hat is navy blue; band, side ornament and tabs of vivid red, accented in small brass buttons. This costume is especially effective for a brother and sister outfit, or to smartly clothe several small members of a family.

ANN ARDEN will answer questions concerning clothes, social customs or fashions generally. Address your questions to the Boston Evening American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser or to Station WLEX.

Sane Buying Urged by Head of General Federation

By NANCY BREWSTER

[illegible] orgies of spending now and paying next year; and not in a fearsome, doubtful mood, but calmly, wisely, using our own good judgment and discernment, spending as we need to spend, buying as we need to buy, and cheerily."

This is [illegible] revitalization of the purchasing power of the country and re-establishment of good times, according to Mrs. John F. Sippel, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

This is the Christmas message of the head of the General Federation to the more than 2,000,000 clubwomen. A message that carries with it not alone the warmest greetings of an executive, but sound advice for rehabilitation of our economic system.

Through the Club Woman, official organ of the Federation, Mrs. Sippel calls upon the nation's clubwomen to fully realize that "America's prosperity is bound to return."

PROSPERITY MESSAGE

She says:

"Did some one say that we have had a hot summer and hard times, we have had drouths, and no end of unemployment? Granted. But surely it cannot be that because we have been so prosperous, we do not now know how to accept adversity; that we have begun to be a bit weak and flabby and are ready to sit down in the shadows of depression and be sorry for ourselves! Not American men and women.

"We can not name the day, or the hour, or the week on which prosperity will come back, but undoubtedly it will return and that before many months. It is impossible that it should not, for America has all the elements of prosperity. We have coal, iron, oil, other minerals beyond measure; we have half the gold in the world and half the machinery; most of all the automobiles and all the skyscrapers. We have broad acres of fertile land, more than enough for our present population; we have the greatest home market in the world; wonderful transportation facilities, we have a climate that is varied and healthful; and we have a racial heritage that is rich in energy, initiative, enterprise, invention and determination to succeed.

"We have men and women of ideals and the courage and ability to translate their ideals into realities.

WILL TAKE TIME

"Can you think for one minute they will fail? Never. Doubtless we shall not reach within a few days or even a few weeks the same degree of prosperity that we enjoyed a few years ago; but it will come and it will be a saner prosperity; it will be wealth that has a stable underpinning; it will be set upon a firm foundation and we shall be stronger men and women for having overcome.

"Dear clubwomen of America, it is our task not only to fill in some of the gaps, but actually to help build up the breaches in the walls. Let us cement our building strongly by sane buying.

"Let us maintain that intangible but most invaluable asset—ours and others' morale."

Eventide Home Club to Be Entertained by Wollaston Club

Members of the Eventide Home, Quincy, will be the guests of the Wollaston Woman's Club at its meeting next Tuesday in the Masonic Temple at 2 p. m. The club will sponsor its annual musicale at that time, with Mrs. Harold F. Robie in charge.

Mrs. Robert Wallace, club president, will preside over the earlier part of the session, turning the program over to Mrs. Robie, who will introduce Marion Auben Wine, contralto; Barbara Whitney, harpist, and Paul Shirley, viola soloist.

At this meeting, club members are to bring Christmas gifts for the crippled children of the Massachusetts Hospital School at Canton.

Christmas Music to Be Feature of Ruskin Club Meeting

With the approach of the Yuletide, musicales are very much in order as far as women's clubs are concerned.

Next Monday, the Ruskin Club of Boston will enjoy such a musicale in the lecture hall of the Boston Public Library, at 3 p. m. Mrs. Alice Wentworth MacGregor will act as hostess for the afternoon, introducing as musicians Mrs. Katherine Follett, Mrs. Marion Rice Johnson, Miss Dolores Rodriquez, Miss Carolyn Uamant, and Miss Sylvia Loomis.

Randolph Ladies' Ass'n Celebrates 75th Anniversary

The Ladies' Library Association of Randolph is 75 years old today and the club is having a party to celebrate the occasion.

A group of 41 women under the leadership of Mrs. N. T. Hendry, organized the club in 1855 starting a library of their own, hence the name, with the one aim to increase and enrich the intellectual life and growth of the women of Randolph.

The club has in its possession the original grant to the land written on sheepskin and signed in the time of King George, the land on which their clubhouse now stands. Much community work is con[illegible] with the club house as a center. Baby clinics with the assistance [illegible] visiting nurse, physicians [illegible] Health camps, the milk fund and aid to war veterans are other activities.

In 1883, the association introduced sewing in the public schools of Randolph. The club's library contains 1200 volumes and current magazines.

Meetings are held every second and fourth Tuesday. In 1895, the association joined the State Federation and in 1926 the General Federation.

Women's City Club to Honor Memory of Emily Dickinson

As a centennial memorial to Emily Dickinson, the Women's City Club will, tomorrow, sponsor the reading of a group of her poems. Mrs. Roland G. Hopkins, whose course on books at the club included a sympathetic interpretation of Miss Dickinson's works in contrast with that of Amy Lowell, will read them, also a few of her letters.

In addition, the Women's City Club will have on display at the club library for a few days this week several rare editions of Miss Dickinson's works, illustrated with her little-known portrait. Emily Dickinson, a great American poet, was born December 10, 1830.

State Federation Junior Membership Conference Jan. 21

From Mrs. Joseph Lelyveld, chairman of the department of junior membership in the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, comes the announcement that a conference of junior advisors will take place Jan. 21, at Federation headquarters, 687 Boylston st., at 2 p. m.

At that time problems of junior membership and how it can be effectively increased will be the most important subject of the discussion.

Tea Held at Radcliffe

The Menorah Society of Radcliffe and the Radcliffe Christian Association held a joint meeting and tea in the college living room yesterday when Prof. Kirsop Lake Winn, professor of ecclesiastical history at Harvard, spoke on "Palestine."

Priscilla Tyler, '31, Cleveland Heights, Ohio, president of the Christian Association, and Ruth Leventhal, 31, Brookline, president of Menorah, were in charge of the meeting.

They were assisted by Miriam Berkman '31, Cambridge, and Mary Funderburk, 32, Brighton, chairmen of refreshments; Bernice Tobias, '31, Roxbury, and Clare Driscoll, '32, Brookline, chairmen of publicity, Ethel Goldberg '32, Roxbury, and Nancy Metcalf, '32, Cambridge, chairmen of invitations. Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 9 (AP)—Enooslak, a 24-year-old Eskimo girl, reigns today as queen of beauty in the Arctic. Andrew Brown, in charge of a trading post at Baker Lake, a thousand miles north of here, picked her from among two dozen entrants in the first beauty contest ever held within the Arctic circle. She received the first mirror she ever owned as a prize.

Plant Life Pioneer Traced to Alaska

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—The "liverwort," a small, delicate plant found growing in Alaska lava beds, was advanced by science today as the possible pioneer of all vegetable life.

Striving to solve the start of vegetation on the earth's crust, a geographic society expedition explored the wastes of the Alaskan peninsula and found the liverwort thriving where no other plant life could survive.

New Haven Airport Nearly Completed

New Haven, Dec. 9 (INS)—Two years of work on the New Haven airport are expected to end next spring and the field put in operation about July 1. Sixty-four acres of sand dunes and salt marshes at Morris Cove have been converted at a cost of about $1,000,000. The city has provided an additional $150,000 to be spent on the work.

Parents Forbid Her Going With Boys

By Beatrice Fairfax

BEATRICE FAIRFAX will gladly answer questions regarding heart and home problems. Address her in care of the Boston American. Write on one side of the paper only. If you wish a personal answer enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope. Otherwise, questions of interest will be answered through her daily columns.

Miss Fairfax broadcasts over Station WLEX every evening except Saturday and Sunday at 6:35 p. m.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a constant reader of your column. My problem is that my parents are very strict with me. They don't believe that a girl of my age (18) should be allowed to go out with any fellows. Now I don't want to go out with every Tim, Dick and Harry, but I like this boy that I have met at a house party that I went to with mother, and I want to ask him to go to a dance that the high school is giving. But what will I do? I'm quite sure dad wouldn't let me go with him, not that he doesn't like him, but it's that foolish idea of not being old enough to go out. They keep telling me that I can never go out unless I'm engaged to the fellow. I am finishing high school this year and this dance I want to go to terribly is a senior dance. How can I get my parents to let me go?

LONESOME.

Beatrice Fairfax

Dear Lonesome: I'm sure I don't know of any remedy for strict parents. It's very fine of them to be so careful of you, but I think they lean over backwards a little bit, in forbidding you any boy friends at all. The idea of never being seen in public with a man until you wear his engagement ring belongs, of course, to the cautious '90's, which produced so many queer old maids and crusty bachelors. I'm afraid I have no arguments to bring to your aid. They are wrong, of course, and I do wish you could get to that high school dance. Disappointments in things like that, while instrinsically unimportant, leave a deep hurt, and I wish mother and father could realize it. Why not show them this letter?

Says She's "Dying" for Love

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 15 and madly in love with a boy 24. He pays little attention to me and he has never asked me to go out with him. My mother never lets me out at night like other girls. I have never been out with a fellow yet. Dear Miss Fairfax, please tell me what I can do to win this fellow's love, or I shall surely die.

M. P. LONELY.

Dear M. P.: I'm quite sure you won't die without the love of this young man. Can't you look around and find someone nearer your own age to become interested in? You see, nine years is a big difference, even if you were old enough to be thinking seriously of love affairs, which, of course, you are not. Mother is quite right not to allow you out nights for a couple of more years. Even in the "best society," where young people are supposed to know the ways of the world, girls do not have "dates" without chaperons until they are 17, so no matter what the other girls do, you can comfort yourself with the knowledge that your mother, at least, knows what is correct and proper, not only morally, but socially.

Ignore Your Brother

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been reading your column for quite a length of time and feel sure you can help me. I've been keeping steady company with a young man whom I love and believe he loves me. We have been together for three years. As times are so hard and we are very young, we decided to wait another year before getting married. He always has been very good and given me a number of quite expensive gifts. He's been working out of town for five months and as the trains and buses don't run often he asks his married brother to bring him in to see me, twice a week, but lately because it's been so cold he hates to ask his brother to do that for him so much and asked me if I'd mind if he only came on Sunday. He is usually held up even then on account of having to make repairs to car, and that makes him late. Now my brother tells me he doesn't love me or he wouldn't make me wait so long. What do you think about it?

A. Z.

Dear A. Z.—I think you should know enough about your friend and how you feel about each other so that you can afford to ignore what anyone else says about him. As long as you are convinced that things are as your friend says, and it certainly sounds reasonable to me, I should pay no attention to your brother, if I were you. He may be only trying to tease you anyway.

Why Banish Poor Polly?

Danger of Parrot's Disease Is Nil

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.

I WAS amused the other day by a mother who scolded her daughter for buying a parrot. The good woman was quite upset by the purchase of this new pet and was positive no good would come of it. It was with much surprise and perhaps with considerable skepticism that she listened to my story, expressing doubt that danger might come from possession of the bird.

Dr. Copeland

Undoubtedly much unnecessary alarm has been raised in the minds of most of us in reference to parrots. This is because of the epidemic of so-called parrot disease recently observed in this country. Several cases of "Psittacosis," or "parrot disease," were discovered in Baltimore and Annapolis last winter. The outbreak was traced to birds supplied by a wholesale dealer in New York City. Shortly after the facts were discovered the diseased birds were placed under the supervision of the health officials and no more cases were reported.

It is interesting to note that this disease has been known for over 50 years. Research has shown that it is caused by the "bacillus psittacosis." This germ is carried by the diseased birds and transmitted to man.

In human beings the course of the disease is similar to that of a mild attack of typhoid fever. Headache, and a rise of fever to 102 and sometimes as high as 104 are common symptoms. The tongue appears dry and coated and the patient complains of feeling very uncomfortable. Either diarrhoea or constipation may be present. Rose-colored spots appear on the skin, and sometimes a marked cough may be present. If no complications take place the patient recovers within 15 or 20 days.

The disease is much more serious, fatal indeed, among birds than in man. In 1892, 500 parrots were shipped from South America to Paris. On the journey 300 of the birds died from this disease. Due to negligence, the remainder of the shipment was sold to various people. Shortly thereafter an epidemic of psittacosis broke out in Paris.

There have been other similar epidemics, but really never very serious. The quarantine officials of the United States as well as of other countries have now provided such methods of inspection for the discovery of this disease that undoubtedly we will rarely or never hear of it again.

Parrots which have been in this country for years are not carriers of the disease, so there is no occasion to get rid of your old pet. The problem of control relates only to recently imported animals.

I am sure we have heard the last of parrot disease. Yet an ounce of prevention is always worth a pound of cure. If you have a parrot and anyone in your home has been ailing with fever and grippe-like complaints, talk with your doctor. This should be the rule if the parrot appears sick or below par.

New York, Dec. 9 — Here's some information that will help fond fathers and husbands, rich uncles and doting grand-parents who don't want the girls of the family to suspect that their Christmas present is going to be a fur coat.

What the girls want is a smart and becoming fur coat. Becomingness is largely a matter of color. And you can tell what color she wants by noting the colors she wears in her other clothes.

If she wears lots of brown, she'll want a brown fur coat so that her dresses will look right with it. If she wears many different colors, black is safest — since black goes best with the largest number of colors.

And as for smartness — you can get that information right from this page. The kinds of furs that are fashionable — the silhouettes — the collars and the sleeves.

For General Wear

If it's to be a coat for general wear, the one sketched above at the left is a good, safe silhouette to choose. Or one somewhat similar.

It's belted, but it can be worn without the belt. It has a deep collar that can be worn fastened up close in a becoming frame, or dropped flat on the shoulders. The sleeve is straight with a self cuff.

The cuff might be deeper. Then when it is dropped on the shoulders it becomes a cape. The belt could be wider—if her figure is slim enough to stand the wide belt. And the cuffs might be gauntlet style—or there might be no cuffs at all . . . just as smartly.

Such a coat is fashionable in many furs. Black or brown pony—smooth and sophisticated. Lapin in a beige, honey or beaver brown. Caracul in black or beige or brown. And Hudson seal, richly black.

For a Dressier Coat

For a more dressy coat—but still one that can be worn all day long—the silhouette shown at the right above is always liked. It's slightly fitted at the waist and slightly flared at the bottom, with a good wrapover that means double warmth. The collar is a stand-up shawl of generous size.

Such a coat might be worn with a belt, or buttoned, or held closed as it is in the sketch. The shawl collar might be shorter. The sleeves, instead of being cuffed as in the sketch, might be plain. Or they might be puffed into a tight cuff at the wrist or made in the revised leg o' mutton style.

This is the silhouette you see so often in mink. And of course she'll love mink—if your pocketbook allows it. But squirrel—in natural gray or dyed sable brown —is lovely, too, in this kind of coat. So is caracul—curly or moired—in black or brown.

For Evening

A white bunny wrap for evening wear is a fine idea for one of the younger members of the family. Get her one that's a little longer than hip length with a softly rolled collar—like the one sketched at the left—and she'll think you're Santa Claus himself!

Some of them are shorter—just about hip length. And some of them have wider sleeves—even dolman sleeves. But whatever their details, they're inexpensive—and in fashion.

Addressing Christmas Envelopes

By MRS. BEECKMAN.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am intending having personal greeting cards this year for Christmas. I am a widow. Will you kindly tell me if I should have them engraved with my own name or my late husband's initials?

L. Y.

If your cards are to be of the formal kind—as apparently you plan—you use your formal name, the name that you used when your husband was living. Like this:

Mrs. Henry Graham Young sends best wishes for a joyful Christmas and a happy New Year

A Flagrant Bit of Rudeness

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Have I committed an unpardonable offense? I embroidered a couch pillow with an adorable house and flower garden on it and sent it to a friend who had just moved into a new bungalow with a flower garden. Now this friend tells me she can't understand why I sent it because they are renting this bungalow, and it is not customary to send a present unless your friend owns the home. I took great pleasure in working the pillow and felt rather chagrined, so I decided to ask you for your valued opinion.

MRS. S.

Well—I'll give up! This is one of the most flagrant pieces of rudenes that I have ever heard of and I should think that you would be confused. I canont understand how anyone, much less a friend who is evidently very dear to you can make another person so unhappy as you must be about this.

Law of Hospitality

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

A question has arisen in our home. Where a person is visiting one member of a family, is it the duty of this person to go and see the other members of that family living very nearby, or should they go and see her?

A. L.

The law of hospitality would suggest that it would be the thing for the people who live in the community to go to welcome the guest who is visiting in that community.

Expressing Hospitality

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1.—If a woman, living in a small family hotel, is seated on the porch entertaining a man caller and another man, who has been away for several weeks, comes to call, should she rise to greet him or merely shake hands and ask him to be seated?

2.—If she has an evening engagement with a man and he is seated in the reception room, when he arrives, should she rise to greet him?

B. P.

1.—Since she is, on this occasion, the hostess, she should rise and shake hands with the man who has just arrived.

2.—Yes—the same thing applies here also.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

BROKEN RAINBOWS

By May Christy

Tell me! I've got to hear it, Wilda—"

He felt her arms tighten about his neck. She drew a little sobbing breath, and whispered: "Yes, Logan—I do love you!"

Night of enchantment and the moon. Under the trees like a great black flower the night closed in on them.

There was a scent of flowers . . . . the perfume of her hair . . . the gentle murmur of the stream.

And ever and anon, from far away, that beguiling dance melody.

It seemed to tell the lovers all they had no words to say. It was as though their hearts opened out to each other in a wordless harmony.

For love—real love—is inarticulate.

Forgot the Time

Wilda Was Hurrying

She pressed his face against her neck, and one of her hands strayed through that wavy hair of his that had always fascinated her. She shut the world away from her in that mad hour, joy surging through her.

Her spirit dropped to its knees before that wondrous rush of love. She yielded sweetly, proudly.

"Logan, it's true. The music says what I can't say—I love you—"

He tilted her chin . . . the firm little chin that in the past had been her own undoing.

"Won't you please kiss me, Wilda?"

Her full sweet mouth parted. She drew his lips to her.

"Darling! I'll never let you go!" he whispered. "When will you marry me? Wilda!"

Over the moonlit fairway from the club-house came the strains of "Good Night, Ladies."

"Is it really so late?" Logan was still in a kind of dream as he and Wilda stepped out from the shadows.

She murmured: "Oh, we've been awfully rude to our host and hostess."

"But I don't want you to go in just now," protested the fond lover. "I want another kiss. Just one. To please me, Wilda."

"No. It's been terrible of us forgetting the time and everything, so. Mrs. McPherson'll think I have outrageous manners."

"She'll be tickled to death when we give her our grand news!"

"That we're engaged, of course. And hasn't Mrs. Mac been urging me for ages to get married?"

"You mustn't say a word to her tonight," cautioned Wilda.

"Why not? Darling, I'm going to blazon to the world that I'm the happiest man in America!"

"No. Don't be silly." She was panting and laughing and protesting, all in one. "Logan —you agreed—remember—it's our own very dear and wonderful secret."

"Secret be darned! I want everyone to know just how crazy I am about you, Wilda."

"Even before Gracie hears? That wouldn't be fair to her. And it would hurt her terribly."

"So I only come second, after all? So you put her ahead of me?" he began, then bit off the words jerkily.

"She's my mother, after all. And, Logan, I'm all she's got. She's been pretty good to me——"

"So of course we have to consider her—" But it seemed to him that there had already been too much 'consideration' of Gracie Gardner.

"You mean you must either get her consent, or else ditch me?"

"Oh, Logan, don't say such a thing." He had her by the arm. They were speeding towards the clubhouse. "Nothing could possibly come between us, nothing I know of!"

"Then that's okey, you blessed darling!"

A moment or two later, they were on the porch, where the guests were already dispersing.

"Where'd you hide yourself all night?"

"Mean skate! Never asked me for a dance!"

"What price being high-hatted by Mr. Logan Townsend?"

Party Missing

May Have Gone Home

Logan drew Wilda away. He protested, "I don't even know her——"

"Ah! Aren't's you popular?" She tried to laugh it off like that. Was ashamed of the stab of jealousy that ran through her.

She said to herself, "Fool that you are. You ought to be proud that he loves you, and you only when he could get the richest girls in Manchester."

"Now where's our party? You don't think they got peeved at us and went off home?"

"Not on your life! The McPhersons aren't such boneheads." They set off in search of their host and hostess.

"Let's go out to the cars. Maybe they're there?" They found the machine that Wilda had driven to Manchester in, had departed.

"It belongs to Coral's friend——"

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

WATER WAVING is not a new idea. It has been done for many years by manufacturers of hair goods, tresses being fastened to boards, arranged in undulations and put in an oven to dry. The finger wave is effective on short hair, but for shoulder length bobs it is best to anchor each waveline with a comb. A longer drying period is necessary when combs are used.

Eight hours of refreshing sleep are necessary for body repairs. Late hours age more women than advancing years. For health and vitality there must be so many hours of rest. Activity is as much a health law as relaxation. By expending energy the body is conditioned to create new energy. Exercise, breath deeply, sleep well.

The lower tip of the breast bone in a very young bird should be as flexible as the human ear. It becomes firm and brittle with age. As the bird matures its feet become hard and rough; the more pronounced these characteristics the older the bird.

The claws of young birds are short and sharp, becoming longer and blunter in older birds. A growth of hair over the bird always indicates age in both chicken and turkey; while plentiful pin feathers denote a young bird.

W[illegible] or domestic ducks and geese should not be more than a year old. The feet should be white and soft and the wings tender.

The body should be plump and thick, the fat light and transparent and the breast bone soft. The [illegible] of young ducks and geese should be flesh colored and brittle, while the windpipe should break easily when pressed between the thumb and forefinger.

If the birds have remained in the market a long time, the eyes are dull and shrunken and the feet are dry and hard. Here are some ways to cook the critter.

ROAST CHICKEN—SOUTHERN STYLE

Clean and joint tender young chicken. Dip in seasoned crumbs, then in beaten egg, then in crumbs. Put into buttered baking pan, cover and cook in the oven until brown, adding a very little boiling water if necessary to keep from burning. [illegible] the chicken. Cook together one tablespoon butter and [illegible] tablespoons of flour, add [illegible] from the pan and a pint of more of milk. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Pour over chicken and serve.

FRICASSEE OF DUCK

Cut a large duck into four pieces, and put into a pot with an onion chopped fine. Add water or stock to cover, a pinch of celery seed, and a tablespoon of diced pork fried brown. Simmer slowly until tender, thicken with browned flour, season with salt, pepper and Worcestershire Sauce and serve with a border of mashed potatoes.

CHICKEN CROUSTADE

Clean and singe a young tender fowl, then cut into 8 small joints. Put into a saucepan 2 tablespoons each of butter and leaf lard; when hot, place in the pieces of fowl and fry quickly on both sides. Transfer the pieces to a casserole, season with salt, pepper and sprinkle over some chopped parsley. Add to them a hard cooked egg, 4 large mushrooms cut in small pieces; also 3 potatoes, sliced very fine and four slices of bacon, previously fried. Next pour over the fowl a tablespoon of brown gravy. Roll out some baking powder biscuit dough and cut to fit the top of the casserole. Brush over with beaten egg yolk and bake in a fairly hot oven for 35 minutes or until biscuit dough and chicken are done.

Faithfully yours,

BACON TOAST

Fry some bacon until a delicate brown. Have ready some buttered toasted brown bread. Place some bacon on the toast. Fry some cold-sliced sweet potatoes in the bacon fat and place on top of bacon. Serve very hot.

The Daily Dollar

HOLIDAY LAYER CAKE

- ½ c. shortening.
- 1 c. sugar.
- 2 egg yolks.
- 2 c. flour.
- 4 tsp. baking powder.
- 1 tsp. vanilla.
- 1½ c. evaporated milk (no water).

Cream shortening, add sugar, then egg yolks, milk and flavoring. Sift flour and baking powder twice, then add to first mixture. Bake in two layer pans. This will also make lovely cup cakes, using the crimple cup cake cups.

ICING AND FILLING

In top of double boiler put 2c. granulated sugar with ⅛ tsp. cream tartar, 2 egg whites (unbeaten), 3 tbsp. cold black coffee. Place over boiler water and beat seven or eight minutes. Remove from stove, add flavoring, beat again for two minutes. Let cool, then add this mixture:

Cream 2 tbsp. butter 1½ c. confectioner's sugar, 3 tbsp. black coffee. Add to boiled icing, mix well. Put between layers, cover top and sides. Use either nuts or [illegible] cocoanut on top. Walnut meats make a lovely decoration.

Commodities Show Slightly More Stability

Christmas Trade Sluggish; Steel's Experiment Stirs Interest

By B. C. FORBES

New York, Dec. 9—Grain prices are showing more stability, changes in other commodities are fairly evenly divided between advances and declines, the stock market has been inclined to droop but liquidation has not been extensive. Sentiment is a little better.

B. C. Forbes

The recent marking up of copper having worked reasonably satisfactorily, the announced advance of a dollar a ton in certain steel products has aroused keen interest. The indications thus far are that the move will have beneficial effects. The steel industry has been operating on inadequate profit margins. When orders fell off, attempts were made to stimulate buying by offering price concessions. When others met the cuts further reductions were resorted to by [illegible]. And so it has gone on for months.

Such price cutting profits nobody in the end. Indeed, it has the effect of causing buyers to hold off in the hope that by so doing they will be able to take advantage of still lower quotations. If the steel industry should prove successful in its new policy, other industries suffering from unduly low prices will be encouraged to follow steel's example. Anything which can be done to raise commodities to fair price levels should be done. Many who considered it smart to steal a march upon rivals by granting concessions must be convinced by now that there is no permanent advantage in adopting such a course.

Christmas trade is running along in about the moderate volume expected. Very contradictory statements are made concerning retail prices. Some shoppers claim that things are as high as ever. Others declare they have found bargains plentiful.

My information is that New York stores noted for the reasonableness of their prices are doing a large business but that other establishments, with the exception of a few ultra-exclusive ones, are doing rather poorly.

It often happens, however, that Christmas buying picks up with a rush just before Christmas. Hopes are still entertained that it may do so this year.

Several business men have asked me to make this suggestion. Now that plans for coping with unemployment suffering have been organized and as a rule, functioning effectively the newspapers should cease featuring unemployment on their front pages.

For example, President Hoover's recommendation that $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 be appropriated by Congress to expand public work was singled out by many newspapers as the one most important part of the President's whole message. Similarly, meetings of unemployment committees and the like are given big headlines.

One man made this observation:

"If the newspapers flaunt before the eyes of their readers every day unemployment and what is being done to meet it, they will frighten those who have jobs and cause them to curtail expenditures still more. It may be have been necessary for the newspapers to play up unemployment problems in order to stimulate relief action. But that object has now been attained. The influence upon the public mind will be better if unemployment subjects be relegated to back pages and not kept hereafter on front pages."

Is this not sound psychology?

The tail-end of the year cannot be expected to bring many developments of a cheerful nature. The probability is, rather, that more or less wreckage will come to the surface, both in the financial world and eleswhere. December-January failures are sure to be numerous.

Hopes are rising that when very large amounts of money are distributed on January 1 in form of dividends and interest [illegible] investing will be of sufficient volume to create new strength in the stock market. Said one experienced financial man:

"If the market can be kept on a fairly even keel this month, it can be depended upon to take care of itself after that."

Oregon-Washington Gross Income Gains

Oregon Washington Water Service Company, a subsidiary of Federal Water Service Corporation, reports gross revenues of $569,142 for the year ended Oct. 31, 1930, as compared with $607,562 for the preceding 12 months.

Operating expenses, maintenance and taxes, other than federal income tax, totaled $292,075, as against $340,373. Gross income amounted to $277,068, which compares with $267,189 for the year ended Oct. 31, 1929.

BROKERS' HELP IS ORDERED TO STAND UP

By FRANK H. MELOON

One of the rather recent innovations in financial circles in Wall and State Streets is the personnel director's edict that customers' men must not be seated. The ruling covers to date only the customers' men employed by one big New York and Boston house. Formerly the customers' men used to sit down with patrons and talk over financial matters. The patron is still allowed to be seated. "I was on my feet all day," is now a valid excuse for the tired customers' man who wants to stay at home of an evening.

Sentiment heard in the State Street district is against Insurance Commissioner Merton L. Brown's demerit plan for automobile drivers who figure in accidents, as we find it. One of the objections commonly heard is that of former Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin, that the scheme carries no "merit" plan [illegible]. It is declared that the insurance companies would be the beneficiaries of the plan, operating as designed.

Merton L. Brown

Some point out that the Brown idea is not feasible, because a mere transfer of title to the "family" car from one member to another could give the new holder a clear record as to accidents, while as likely as not the car might continue to be driven by the person responsible for the "damning" accidents.

There is no doubt but what the transfer idea would be worked as successfully with automobiles, if occasion arose, as it has been with real estate. It is not even necessary to have an operator's license in all our states. The test idea, as now used in Massachusetts to produce a race of "super-drivers," is about a decade old in New Hampshire, for example, and we haven't heard anyone in the Granite State boasting about being a "super-driver."

* * *

In Maine, if you buy a car or want to drive one, you purchase a driver's license. You undergo no test except the practical one of driving; and that works out successfully in Maine. The annual fee paid here for a renewal of the driving license is merely a disguised tax on the family car, and not very much disguised at that.

* * *

The rich people, who employ chauffeurs as a rule, turn in $2 a year, directly or indirectly, to the Commonwealth for a car operator's license (really a tax). Less enriched people, who have the car driven by three or four members of the family, contribute $6 to $8 annually for their share of the tax burden in this direction. As pointed out editorially in this newspaper last week, the total of all taxes levied on automobiles is a real hardship to many.

* * *

The unjust taxing of the automobilist is a more serious matter than the individual might think. It certainly has a repressive effect on the very important automotive industry, responsible for the employment of many thousands of Massachusetts citizens.

In spite of the depression, the New England Independent Retail Grocers Association, formed in July, 1930, is increasin very rapidly. There is already a membership of 400 with an expected increase of 600 more by February, 1931. The organization helps the independent grocers in the way of purchasing, advertising and selling. It is also going to conduct a Grocers' Journal and advertise the members by having them broadcast over Station WNAC commencing February, 1931. Some of the leading wholesale grocers and food brokers of Boston are interested in this undertaking. Harry Remick of Boston, M. I. T., 1922, has active charge of operations.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

Wall St. estimates today place the unfilled tonnage statement of U. S. Steel, to be issued at noon tomorrow, as definitely showing an increase. One report says it may run as high as 100,000 tons. The statement will cover the month of November. A year ago U. S. Steel's unfilled tonnage increased in that month 38,783 tons and November, 1928, gave a decrease of 78,030 tons.

Bears Circulate Bad Propaganda

Some frightened selling followed the bears' circulation of rumors that New York Central's dividend was in danger notwithstanding estimates that the $8 payment will be covered by earnings this year. Then, too, it is recognized that Central has a huge backlog of earnings in subsidiaries' surplus which can be drawn upon if necessary. It is recognized that various dividends will be reduced or omitted, but many discriminating investors are seeking out rail issues with reasonably assured maintenance of dividends until general business improves.

U. S. Steel Shows Heels to Bears

U. S. Steel showed its heels to the bears as the stock advanced from 140⅞ to above 142. Wall Street heard that the monthly advance tonnage report and the Iron Age's report on steel production tomorrow would show good increases and that other evidence would be supplied of the definite upward trend of the steel industry.

Railway Signal's Business Is Good

Business of General Railway Signal Co. continues to run at a good rate, and the company has a fair chance of duplicating 1929 results when net profit after all charges was $3,118,346, equal after preferred dividends to $8.25 per share on 357,500 shares of common. For the first nine months of this year it reported net of $2,046,259, equal after preferred dividends to $5.36 per share of common, compared with $2,105,207 or $5.53 per share of common in the same period last year.

Usually the latter part of the year is best from the earnings standpoint, with the latter half showing about double the profit of the first half. Roughly speaking, this experience will be repeated this year. October and November results were good.

Associated Dry Goods Is Active

As result of increased operating efficiency, sales and earnings of Associated Dry Goods Corp this year will show only slight decline from those of 1929 in spite of generally unfavorable business conditions and numerous inventory losses caused by falling prices.

Dollar sales volume so far this year has been less than 1 per cent behind that of the corresponding period last year, although prices of merchandise on the average are down more than 10 per cent.

Neve Hits Drug Chain Collapse

A. J. Neve, former president of Neve Drug Stores, Inc., has sent to stockholders of United Retail Chemists Corp and present and former stockholders of Neve Drug Stores, Inc., a letter attacking the management by United Cigar Stores Co. of America and Whelan Drug Co. of the Neve Drug Stores, Inc. Mr. Neve alleges that the entering of an order adjudging Neve Drug Stores, Inc., a bankrupt, was a violation of the Bankruptcy Act and claims that the value of the stores was dissipated by their closing. Mr. Neve charges that during the period from Jan. 9, 1929, and Aug. 30, 1930, the assets of the Neve Drug Stores, Inc., shrank from approximately $3,079,000 to $558,549.

Dillon, Read in Mining Corp. Loan

Dillon, Read & Co. have arranged a short-term loan to the Gelsenkirchen Mining Corporation. No public offering will be made, the loan having been placed privately.

The corporation is one of the leading coal producers in Germany and in addition owns the largest single holding of the capital stock of United Steel Works Corporation, which is the largest European manufacturer of iron and steel.

Analysis Hurts Case Threshing

Speculative Demand for Yellow Truck

Although it is recognized that 1930 earnings showing of Yellow Truck will make unfavorable reading, a steady speculative demand is evident for the stock, on the theory that revival of the truck industry is certain to find reflection in this company's activities and earnings.

Rock Island's Dividend Outlook

With the stock in new low territory, and the yield approaching 14 per cent, Chicago-Rock Island's $7 dividend rate obviously is at least to be lowered.

Paramount Net for Next Year

Kreuger & Toll Yield Attracts Little Buying

High yield obtainable on Kreuger & Toll is not attracting aggressive buying, due to reports that one of the sponsors of the stock has been forced to dispose of part of its holdings. This interest, so the story goes, became somewhat overextended, and naturally was forced to lighten some of its investments. The reports, incidentally, indicated that the situation with respect to this interest has been cleared up and that further assistance would be extended if necessary.

"Frisco" Dividend Outlook Uncertain

Persistent liquidation in St. Louis & San Francisco reflects uncertainty over the maintenance of the present $3 annual dividend on the common. Around current levels the yield on "Frisco" common exceeds 16 per cent, indicating that a substantial revision might be expected. Earnings of the road this year will be insufficient to cover the present dividend requirements, and officials of the road already have intimated that maintenance of the present dividend rate is practically impossible.

Granite City Steel Outlook

Granite City Steel has been doing better than most of the smaller independent companies and while the dividend rate has been reduced to $3 a share from $4, the ability to maintain the lower rate is looked upon as probable by interests in the company. The company sells principally to tinplate and railroad equipment makers and has not felt the lower automobile output as have many of the other smaller steel companies.

TONE IN BOSTON MARKET SHOWS BETTERMENT

Tone on the Boston Stock Exchange showed betterment this afternoon. A number of new 1930 lows were recorded in earlier dealings.

New Haven fell off over a point to a new low at 77½ before rallying. Massachusetts Utilities, United Fruit, United Founders, American Founders, Atchison and Keeweenaw all set new lows before rallying appeared.

Boston Edison was up over a point. New England Telephone at 137 was up a point.

At annual meeting of shareholders of the Atlantic National Bank of Boston, to be held January 13, stockholders will be asked to authorize the transfer of $2,000,000 from surplus to undivided profits and from undivided profits of the bank to the Atlantic Corp. as an addition to its general assets and surplus.

Westfield Mfg. Co. Shipments Better Those of 1929

While figures are not available for the first quarter of Boston-listed Westfield Manufacturing Company's fiscal year, which ended November 29, it is understood that shipments for the period exceeded those for the like 1929 quarter. Annual report recently issued, showed the year ended Aug. 31, 1930, as satisfactory. The company reported net earnings of $331,625 or $2.65 per share on the 124,828 no-par common shares. During the past fiscal year company retired balance of its 6 per cent notes, totaling $100,000.

CURB MARKET HAS UNEVEN RALLIES

New York, Dec. 9—Successive rallies of uneven character checked the momentum of the reaction in curb stocks today, after new low marks had been set. The upturn failed to retract all of the lost ground and the market as a whole closed at irregularly lower levels.

Utilities received relatively better support than other groups, with American Gas & Electric, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Electric Bond & Share, Middle West Utilities, United Light & Power holding their position in firm style. Weakness was apparent in American & Foreign Power warrants and Tampa Electric, both of which were off some two points.

Cities Service firmed up after forenoon softness, and finished the session but fractionally lower.

Oils were outstandingly weak, with Standard of Ohio slumping almost 6 points to a new low before meeting support. Other petroleum shares to sell off to new bottoms for the year included Gulf, Humble, and South Penn.

Oil Dividend Is Off

New York, Dec. 9 (AP) Directors of Richfield Oil Co. of California today omitted the quarterly dividend of 43¾ cents on the $25 par 7 per cent preferred stock, due for payment Feb. 1.

STOCK DECLINE IS CHECKED IN WALL STREET

Neither declines nor advances lasted for long, and there were narrow changes both ways at the close.

There was further selling in the early trading, sending several rails and specialties to new lows.

Strong resistance to selling pressure appeared in the pivotal industrials, however, and early losses of 1 to 3 points were replaced for a time with numerous gains of similar extent, but some issues declined again in the late trading.

SALES 2,200,000

Atchison, after sagging fractionally to a new low, sold up nearly 4 points, then reacted to close only about a point higher.

Goodyear, Sears and National Biscuit closed with similar gains, and Allied Chemical was up 2 points. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Standard of N. J. and General Electric were up fractionally. New York Central reached new low ground only to close up more than a point.

Case and International Telephone dropped about 3 to new lows, and closed off 1½. Union Carbide and Johns Manville closed off about as much. A loss of 2 points in American Telephone was reduced to a fraction.

ENCOURAGEMENT SEEN.

The strong support accorded the industrial shares as their general level approached the year's low point recorded on November 10 was encouraging.

The rails, as measured by the price index of 20 issues, broke through their November bottom yesterday and recorded the lowest level since May, 1926. Had the industrials also been permitted to break into new low territory, it would, according to the Dow theory, have confirmed the decline in the rails and indicated a further downward movement.

STEELS ARE STRONG.

Strength of the steel shares was presumably a reflection of forecasts that United States Steel's unfilled orders, to be announced tomorrow, will show a fair gain. Recent price advances for some of the heavier steel products are reported in steel trade circles to have brought more active inquiry from consumers and firmer prices for lighter products are understood to be in prospect.

Efforts to strengthen copper prices, however, seem still in the balance, since the metal has been heavy in London this week.

The improved statistical position of the tire industry was reflected in announcements of increased manufacturing activity at both Goodyear and Firestone plants.

SPECTATOR'S VIEWS GIVEN

Recent weakness in Radio shares has been due to reports that sales of radios thus far in the holiday season have not come up to expectations, with some leading stores beginning to liquidate excess stocks at this time, instead of waiting until after the holidays.

Woolworth Sales

Interests familiar with the company's operations are of the opinion that the decline in Woolworth's sales last month will be more than made up in December for there will be 21 trading days before Christmas as against 20 last year, and furthermore the extra day will fall in Christmas week. It seems likely that despite the smaller sales volume, 1930 earnings will equal or slightly exceed those of last year when the company earned $3.66 per share.

Dividends by 521

Initial dividends were paid by 524 corporations in the first 11 months of 1930 and extra payments were declared by 996 in the same period, according to Standard Statistics Company. Payment was resumed by 27 corporations and increased by 200 in the 11 months' period. There were 714 companies that passed their dividends, against 175 in the corresponding period of 1929.

NEW BEDFORD'S MILLS BUSIER

Unemployment situation in New Bedford is to be relieved to a considerable extent within the next few weeks. The National Spun Silk Co. is expected to resume full time operations at capacity, and by the beginning of the new year will have a working force of 1200 to 1300, an increase of 50 to 60 per cent over the number now employed.

At the three large tire fabric plants, additional workers have been employed in the last few weeks, and these plants now are operating almost at full capacity. An increase in activities at a number of the fine cotton goods plants is also expected after the end of this year.

The Devon Mill, makers of tire fabric for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., has been operating on a full normal basis with three shifts, and is to continue this schedule indefinitely, it is stated. At the Fisk plant, operations have not been closed down completely as was announced a short time ago.

Additional orders received have enabled the plant to continue operations at 40 to 50 per cent of normal. At the Firestone plant, operations are being continued on the three-shift plan, two six-hour shifts during the day, and the regular night shift, providing work for approximately 1200.

Letters From American Readers

Letters from readers on current subjects are welcomed. Letters should not exceed 250 words in length, should be written on one side of the paper, and must bear the writer's name. Names will be omitted in publication, if requested. Address Editor, Boston American, 5 Winthrop sq.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

Every now and then a thinking man says something in a few words which goes direct to the heart of a public question. It remained for Mr. "Bugs" Baer to sum up a problem in a word. He writes: "Keep your money in circulation. That's how you got it." There you have it. "Bugs" said a lot that day!

New Englanders as a class have had thrift preached to them until it has all but become a vice. The necessities of the World War also furthered the saving theory "Save Until It Hurts," we heard and the habit was carried along into peace times.

Then along came our own Calvin Coolidge, clean, honest, capable and industrious, but withal, a gentleman of extreme thrift and thrift became a national policy. The trail blazers of American life have been men who dared to spend, to risk all, to venture everything that we might become the nation we are in a few short years.

Energetic, virile men and women who work and live life, live today and not forever in the fear of the future usually round out the chapter before reaching the poor farm. I rather think Mr. Baer was right, "Keep your money in circulation. That's how you got it."

Writer Says Equal Taxation Is Unjust

Editor Boston American:

Our countrymen are still groping in the dark for a solution of unemployment and are not finding it, to judge by reports and indexes of commerce and the stock markets. Very prominent and more or less great men have attempted to point out a way for business revival. Plans for national, state and municipal co-operation in the way of public construction with the urging of men who have large capital to embark in industry is nothing new, and heard of many a time before. What may be achieved in the way of increased expenditures of money to speed up business will amount to nothing more in the aggregate than a drop in the bucket. They took it away in volumes, billions we may say, in speeding up the war, but with hat in hand they are merely asking for the help of private capital.

One prominent man, Mayor Curley, speaks of a trust fund for the poor which would mature about 125 years hence. The unemployed who today need bread which they must beg or steal would have a long time to wait.

Taxation should not be equal. Those having more than they need should be taxed more abundantly, income taxes, excess profit taxes, and huge inheritance taxes, and so forth. Something that could not be saddled back upon the people who have little or no taxes to pay. Then indeed would no government tax prove a boomerang to the workers. Money so derived from these sources should be made a permanent policy. Then such money could be devoted to the restoration of business almost on a par with the boom that came to us through the war. With love and not hate we could see prosperity flourish and blossom throughout the land.

JOSEPH J. MURRAY.

The Blindness of Justice

Editor Boston American:

Another one—A judge gives two lads nine to 12 years for stealing $106, yet the Page & Shaw gang gets two years for $2,000,000.

Queer thing, this justice!

GERALD BRENNAN.

Pay the Bonus Now, Is Plea of Veteran

Editor Boston American:

I believe the soldiers' bonus should be paid now when the ex-soldier needs the money. It would help the ex-soldier to pay his debts, buy some new clothes and pay the grocery bill. The money being spent this way would circulate around and help business of all kinds, to recover and would furnish employment to thousands of men and women.

If the ex-soldiers 38 or 40 years old (which most of us are) with wives and families to take care of are not capable of handling this money to the best advantage, who is? We need this money now in these times of unemployment.

Why wait until we are dead? The bonus as it was made out is a half fake agreed upon by Mr. Mellon and the men who were supposed to represent the veterans, but who it seems were only playing the game to get soft government jobs for themselves. We notice that most of them were rewarded.

The present bonus after 20 years will be of little benefit to about 90 per cent of the veterans as they have borrowed on it and few of them will be able to get it out again. Why not give the bonus now when the veteran is still alive and needs it? Why not help the country now by putting that money in circulation where it will help everybody? The bonus spent in the retail store would go to the wholesaler, then to the manufacturer or producer, then in wages to the workers who in turn would spend it for their needs and it would help all the people.

Canada didn't hesitate to pay her soldiers. But she didn't have a Mr. Mellon. But maybe some day Mr Mellon would like to have the veterans save his factories from the Reds, as they saved them from the Germans once. It would help the veterans now when they need it and it would help the country's business to pay the soldiers' bonus at once. Let's go, soldiers!

Y. D. VETERAN.

Editorial on Auto Taxes Wins Praise of Car Owner

Editor Boston American:

Your editorial in a recent American headed "Taxes and Automobiles," was a corker. All the other papers in Boston pass by this situation, but you can depend on the Boston American to be on the job.

Keep up your good work, Mr. Editor. You are the only champion the autoist has.

While I am on the subject of champions, allow me at this time to say that Franklin Collier is in a class by himself. More power to him.

AN AUTOIST.

Shorter Week Seen as Boon to Employment

Editor Boston American:

This is the richest country in the world, and people are begging for a chance to earn a living. What a farce!

It is generally accepted as a fact, that the reason for this wide-spread unemployment, is that there has been an over-production of everything. If this is so, doesn't it naturally follow that unemployment will be a periodic misfortune, recurring more frequently, as science keeps speeding up production?

To my mind, the only permanent remedy can be to increase wages and shorten the working week, in proportion to the increased production which science and invention have and will make possible.

MARION E. CARELLA.

Help for Jobless Actors Suggested

Sir:

The other night I attended the Keith-Albee theater and heard of the big performance scheduled for midnight, Dec. 15, the funds to be used for Christmas Baskets for the needy, through your newspaper.

It is mighty nice to be able to use professional performers for these worthy causes and it is seldom that a real trouper falls down on a job of this kind. However, I wonder when the various committees of ways and means are going to take into consideration the unemployment situation among actors, people who know only how to entertain their public and are inexperienced in other lines.

When depression strikes, the theater bears the brunt of the attack as long as any other industry and things are mighty terrible right now.

Why could not some unemployment committee open a Boston theater to artists during this period of distress, and run an all-day program of vaudeville, using the proceeds to relieve the situation among theater folks? One does not hear so much about the poor actor unless one is on the inside, but there are plenty of pitiful cases, and it would seem the public owes this much support to the actors who are always ready to do so much for that public.

This is only an idea but perhaps it is worth looking into.

RADIO Personalities

People make a point during the halves of a football game of strolling by the mike in the press-stand and shouting something in it as they pass. And so they are happy in the thought that they have spoken over the air. Little do they know, however, that an engineer is standing by for just the purpose of shutting off the mike on each such and occasion. . . GEORGIA BACKUS, CBS dramatics director, collects first editions of modern novels. She has over 200, her most prized volume being "Jergen," which is now worth 25 times what she paid for it. . . . GILBERT E. GABLE, NBC actor, was the first white man ever taken into brotherhood by the Western Navajo Indians of Arizona. . . FRANK OWENS, NBC salesman, narrowly missed becoming a rich man the other day when he found a pearl in an oyster he was eating. But the gem was fried a golden brown, thereby eliminating any profits that might have been gotten thereof. More than 8,000,000 listeners are expected to tune in on WALTER DAMROSCH'S Music Appreciation hour this year. . . . Of the 282,000 radio sets in Czechoslovakia, 60 per cent are of the crystal type. . . We may be wrong but we think that TED HUSING and TED WEEMS look and sound alike.

Senator Davis Asks for Army-Navy Game Contributions at 9:30 This Evening

"Buy broadcast tickets" will be the watchword of an address to be heard tonight at 9:30 over WNAC when Senator James J. Davis, former Secretary of Labor, will discuss the unemployment situation, and will make an appeal for contributions to the Salvation Army Radio Fund from listeners who are unable to attend the Army-Navy football game, Dec. 13.

It is the plan of the Salvation Army who are making the appeal for the charity football game, to have listeners to the game contribute as though they were paying an admission price.

Already thousands of radio listeners have responded to the first appeal which was made on the air last week by Grover Whalen, chairman of the citizens' committee of the Salvation Army, and when Senator Davis speaks tonight another great response is expected. Senator Davis will speak for five minutes after which radio listeners will hear the weekly Philco concert. Philco is sponsoring the football game Saturday.

DAMROSCH LUNCHEON ON AIR

An extensive NBC-WEAF network will broadcast the Advertising Club luncheon in honor of Walter Damrosch, music counsel for the National Broadcasting Co. and an outstanding figure in radio broadcasting today. The luncheon, presented under the auspices of the Radio Advertising group of the Advertising Club, will be broadcast tomorrow from 1:15 to 2 p. m. Damrosch will be principal speaker.

Radio Romance

ADELE VASA, soprano, has announced her engagement to Paul Greene, night manager of Columbia System. Miss Vasa is heard on several programs.

Concerning Radio

Edited by BILL WHIPPLE

This seems to be an excellent time to discourse for a few paragraphs upon the timing of broadcasts; by that we mean the starting and ending of a complete program. Very few of you readers can appreciate just how important it is that each individual broadcast begin and end exactly on the allotted time period. But as radio has become such an important part of your everyday life, we believe that every phase concerning its functions contains more or less interest for you; therefore a word about it.

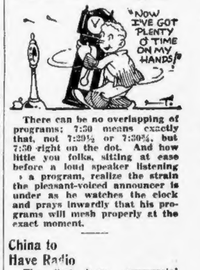
It is very apt to be the case that practically all of the broadcasting stations, or studios—omitting the network headquarters—are very much cramped for room. In other words, their studio facilities are inadequate; to put on a continuous program, where one or more entertainers follow immediately upon the heels of another, requires a great deal of maneuvering on the part of studio officials.

Let us illustrate: We will say that station XYZ has a large studio, capable of seating a good-sized orchestra; it also has a small reception room (this is actually about the layout of most studios) wherein collect the artists and entertainers whose broadcast period is approaching.

While the musicians are collecting in the reception room there is being broadcast in the studio a 15-minute program consisting of a quartet, or possibly a humorous dialogue. Three or four minutes before the 15-minute period is to conclude the band of musicians must invade the studio and prepare to begin the minute the preceding period is up. And you may well imagine how disconcerting it is for the artists before the "mike."

But of necessity it must be so. One of the worst crimes in the broadcasting world is to allow a delay between programs. Not even a fraction of a minute is permissible; "The show must go on" in radio entertainment as well as in the theatrical world.

There is very good reason, too, beyond the obvious need of a smooth-running program; it is that the sponsor is paying a large sum for a stated time. It amounts to hundreds, even thousands of dollars for a comparatively short while, and the sponsor is entitled to every minute and fraction thereof—and he certainly sees to it that he get it.



"NOW I'VE GOT PLENTY O' TIME ON MY HANDS!"

There can be no overlapping of programs; 7:30 means exactly that, not 7:29½ or 7:30¼, but 7:30 right on the dot. And how little you folks, sitting at ease before a loud speaker listening to a program, realize the strain the pleasant-voiced announcer is under as he watches the clock and prays inwardly that his programs will mesh properly at the exact moment.

China to Have Radio

The first large commercial broadcasting station in China will be erectd in Shanghai early this coming year by the Shanghai Power Co., an American concern, purchased last year from the Shanghai municipal council. It will be strictly an American enterprise, costing in the vicinity of $75,000, using 1000 watts power and will go on the air every day with both Chinese and foreign music programs furnished by local amateur and professional talent. Announcements will be made in both Chinese and English. It is interesting to note that while the station will be conducted as are those in this country there will be one notable exception—all political speeches and propaganda will be barred.

OVER MILLION GET U. S. AID

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—Director-General Hines of the veterans administration, informed President Hoover today that 271,210 veterans had applied for disability allowance. Out of 99,026 claims 51 per cent had been allowed.

The Government on November 30 was paying benefits, Hines said, to 1,095,524 persons. Compensation was being paid to 289,344 and death compensations to 93,238, making a total of 382,582 persons receiving compensation.

A total of 154,598 persons were drawing benefits from war risk insurance and 85,032 were receiving benefits from government converted insurance, making a total of 163,530 persons receiving benefits from insurance.

Pensions were being paid to 256,204 soldiers, 203,753 widows or orphans of soldiers and 480 nurses, a total of 460,437 persons receiving pensions from the government.

The veterans' administration was caring for 31,530 persons in hospitals and 21,604 in soldiers' homes, a total of 53,000 persons being directly cared for by the government.

Boston Man and 2 Hurt in Auto Crash

Portland, Me., Dec. 9—A car driven by a man who said he was Dr. Edward Brownstein of Roxbury, was badly wrecked and its three occupants injured when it crashed into the rear of a truck near Dunstan, 10 miles from here early today. The driver, police allege, had fallen asleep at the wheel. Roy Usher, of Portland, driver of the truck, escaped injury. The car was owned by Samuel Tabenken of Portland who with his brother, Morris, was a passenger.

Love Slumps

New England Council in Hartford Dec. 19

Hartford, Ct., Dec. 9—The 21st quarterly meeting of the New England Council will be held here Dec. 19, with election of officers the principal feature. President John J. Pelley of the New Haven Railroad will discuss the legislative problem of the road.

PORT OF BOSTON

By JAMES J. DELANEY

With four passengers the San Benito, United Fruit Co., arrived here 24 hours late delayed by strong southeasterly winds from the tropics, but coming through without damage and with little discomfort to her passengers.

Frank Taylor, Clarence W. Nottage, Grafton N. Thurreel and George Foster of Boston were the passengers.

She was loaded with 28,000 bunches of bananas at Tela, Honduras, and left for Boston November 30. She was due to arrive here Sunday. Capt. D. M. MacDonald was in charge.

RAY LONG BACK

Heading a group of United States and European notables due to arrive in New York, today, is Ray Long, publicist, editor-in-chief of the International Magazines Co., who completes a trans-Atlantic trip on the Ile de France, flagship of the French Lines, which arrives here from Havre and Plymouth. The first group of girls to return from a trip to Paris as the guests of Gloria Swanson, 11 beauties from as many cities are due back from the French capital. The girls won a contest in their various cities for being the "typical girl." The same contest sponsored in Boston by the Boston Evening American was won by Miss Lucy MacDonald of Mattapan who starts with a group from New York on Friday.

SOVIET PORT

Boston importers and exporters were notified that the Soviet government has decided on the opening of Jegarka, which is situated 100 kilometers from the mouth of the Yenissei, to serve, principally, for the export of wood and graphite. The Maritime Association of the Chamber of Commerce made the announcement yesterday.

SANTA MAIL

With a record cargo of Christmas mail, the S. S. Baltic, White Star Line, is spanning the Atlantic and is scheduled to arrive here Sunday. She has 577 sacks of mail and 300 bags of parcel post to be landed here. She will bring about 128 passengers to Boston.

SEA BAPTISM

Decks deluged with water in heavy seas greeted the Silverwalnut, new British motorship, latest addition to the Silver Line, in her first crossing of the Atlantic, Capt. W. R. Dunnett, reported on his arrival here. She docked at Pier 2, East Boston. She brought 200 tons of general cargo and 1000 tons of palm oil in bulk from the Far East.

She was built at Sunderland and put in commission a few months ago. She is 455 feet long, 62 feet beam with a gross tonage of 6300 tons.

RATES FOR 1931

Boston port officials will be represented at the freight conferences when the various steamship companies meet Wednesday and Thursday in New York to fix rates for 1931.

Edward M. Hagerty, general traffic manager of the Cunard Line, Fred E. Lamb, freight manager of the International Mercantile Marine Co., will be Bostonians at the Wednesday conference. Arthur Lane, traffic manager of Rogers & Webb of Boston, will be at the Thursday conference.

Salada Tea Co. to Boost Advertising

The annual convention of the Salada Tea salesmen was held today at the company's headquarters in Boston.

Edgar B. Pinto, business manager, announced that the year's business, in spite of the general depression, has been very satisfactory.

Herbert C. Claridge, advertising manager, stated that Salada Tea advertising for 1931 would constitute, by far, the largest tea advertising program ever arranged by any one company, not only in this country, but throughout the world.

"It has been decided to increase our advertising appropriation considerably," he said, "with newspapers again forming the principal medium, as has been the case since the establishment of the company, 30 years ago."

Dying Rumanian Names Russian Spy

Galatz, Rumania, Dec. 9 (AP)—M Hagedinski, agent of the Rumanian secret police, was fatally shot last night in the Central Hotel. Before he died Hagedinski named M. Yolantinkoff as leader of the Russian spy system in Galatz, and implicated the organization in the shooting.

SOVIET TRIAL CALLED FARCE

London, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Daily Express, commenting today on the commutation of sentences imposed by Moscow on eight men charged with plotting against the Soviet government, characterizes the dramatic trial just ended there as a "put up job."

In an editorial headed "The Ogpu Farce," the newspaper said:

"Thus ends the biggest burlesque of justice which has been staged in our time. From beginning to end the whole thing, with its fantastic charges, has been incredible."

The purpose of the exhibition in Moscow, said the newspaper, was to "inflame Russian opinion against the outside capitalist world. If there is a single Russian who has been genuinely imposed upon by this monstrous masquerade then humor and realism must have deserted the country."

LAVAL SPEEDS CABINET TASK

Paris, Dec. 9 (INS)—Speed in the formation of a ministry urged by President Gaston Doumergue today brought forth redoubled efforts on the part of Senator Pierre Laval.

The obstacle in M. Laval's path is the same that ended the cabinet hopes of Senator Barthou. The Radical party declines to participate in a government wherein Louis Marin's Nationalists (the right group) holds a seat. The latter advocate religious teaching in public school.

New difficulty developed when it was learned that Andre Tardieu, former premier, had accepted the portfolio of public works in the Laval government. It was feared he would again meet the opposition of the radicals, who brought about the downfall of his ministry.

Aristide Briand, it was understood, has been chosen as foreign minister and Andre Maginot as war minister.

Many Good Reasons

If you are a close family relative of a mail carrier or a department store clerk, you will not need to read this.

You know their exhausted, bedraggled condition when they finally make their way home, their strength sapped, their health possibly undermined, after the furious toil and irritations of the late Christmas rush.

But for you who are not relatives, who neither understand nor care, and who have no personal interest other than your own, there are reasons which should prompt even you to do your Christmas shopping and mailing now.

Prices are reasonable. They cannot always stay so. The bargains of today may be gone tomorrow. The best selections of Christmas gifts may be picked over. You will find it more convenient to do your shopping in leisure than to struggle in the last-minute crowds or to chance the delay of your Christmas cards and messages in the terrific congestion of Christmas eve.

Acting Postmaster Hurley informs us that some 2000 unemployed men with dependent families can be given work NOW if thoughtful people would start mailing NOW. It is a triple gain: Work for some, an easier burden for the regular carriers, early delivery for the patrons.

We have confidence enough to believe that the first reason is enough for the great majority of our people. They have responded heroically to the relief of conditions and they prove themselves always reliable when their attention is called to the needs.

Blue Days to the North

Will New Hampshire Follow Vermont?

Vermont goes blue; New Hampshire may follow.

If you lived in Bellows Falls last Sunday, you would have found it against the law to buy a newspaper, even though it contained Cardinal O'Connell's sermon; to conduct a radio broadcast, even if it happened to be Rev. Parkes Cadman's religious hour; to hire or run a taxi, even to the bedside of a dying friend or relative.

"If the law supposes that," said Mr. Bumble, "the law is a ass, a idiot."

What might Mr. Bumble say of those who enforce it?

Law ends where foolish tyrannies begin.

Perhaps these shrewd Vermonters, with their keen sense of humor, have decided to take out some of these ancient restrictions, dust the cobwebs off them and use them for a source of corner-grocery debate, now that the crops are in, the chores done and the trout streams frozen over.

Being shrewd folk, they can be relied upon to wipe them out or forget them before the Summer tourists arrive with millions to spend, on Sundays as well as weekdays.

We Pay Our Bills

Why Shouldn't Europe?

The American people, as a whole, pay their bills.

We are doing a credit and installment business in excess of fifteen thousand million dollars annually, yet the average loss from bad debts is kept as low as three-fifths of one per cent.

The New England average of loss from bad debts is said to be even lower than that.

It could hardly be expected, therefore, that a people who are used to paying their bills could regard with any approval the schemes of the European Nations to default their obligations to Uncle Sam.

Longfellow's great tribute to the village blacksmith, typical of New England honesty, was, "He looks the whole world in the face, for he owes not any man."

$3,000,000 to Spend

Gov. Allen Acts Quickly

Governor Allen has arranged that $3,000,000 may be made available for the construction and maintenance of highways this month, in advance of the annual appropriations by the incoming Legislature.

It is a project which will put men to work, provide an income for their families and enable the State to undertake improvements for the convenience of its people while deriving the saving advantage of the low prices of construction materials.

It is a project which was advocated by the Boston Evening American for those beneficent reasons and which commanded the enthusiasm of both Governor Allen and Governor-elect Ely.

The diligence with which Governor Allen has kept at his tasks, despite the recent November outcome, and his interest in meeting the peculiar burdens of the period cannot but win the respect of the public. Fortunately, he refused to succumb to the philosophy of the slothful lame-ducks and time-servers in public life whose principal avocation is conceiving excuses why things should not be done.

TAKING HIM FOR A RIDE

In old days a mule represented the Democracy. He could kick, and pull, and you had to notice him.

The Democratic party has dwindled, and the Democratic animal has dwindled also, as you see in the picture, where the little donkey, hitched up to the G. O. P. elephant, is hauling a queer load.

Who and what is that thing in the back of the wagon labelled Wilson Democracy? Where do they think they are taking him, and what do they expect to do with him when they get him there?

Let's hope that that queer hybrid rig will not pass the Supreme Court in its meanderings.

Our aggregation of justices would be somewhat shocked to learn that important Americans say that they think they need some help in running the United States from this League Court Party.

Listen World! Too Easy

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Beware of a Comfortable Marriage

BEWARE OF a marriage that will make things comfortable for you.

Beware of a mate whom you can patronize—who will let you "take things easy"—who will never criticize or make you feel like 30 cents.

Elsie Robinson

Nothing will make a bum out of you quicker than such a marriage.

Nothing will make a cad or a coward of you quicker than such a mate.

Love is divine—if it's the right kind of love. But it is utterly demoralizing, if it's the wrong kind of love. And unfortunately most of us are ignorant about the "right" and "wrong" kinds of love. But there's a test——

Any love that makes you live more bravely, honestly and energetically, is the right kind of love.

For life is the important thing, not love. You need growth far more than you need romance. Love is only important as it ministers to life—as it makes a finer man or woman of you. If it doesn't do that, love's a failure, no matter how "happy" it makes you.

That is why many of the wisest men have condemned marriage. They felt that it complicated life too much—that it endangered growth. They saw clearly that marriage, which most of us regard so blithely, is really the gravest risk a character can take. For if you stay single, the world will always take it out of you if you make a fool of yourself.

But if you're married, you nearly always get petted up at home. Also, it takes so little effort to be a success in marriage. Just flatter the old man, or bring the old girl a bunch of flowers, and you're a prize winner as a Missis or a Mister. But it takes much, much more than that to qualify as a regular human.

Why have men and women turned against a "faithful, loving partner, who never did an unkind thing to them"? That's why. There is something deadly and damning about such a companionship. Something unnatural. No human being has a right to spend years with another human being and never do an unkind thing to him or her. No two humans can be real partners and not stir each other up—not criticize and clash in the course of their mutual progress.

And something in us—something deep and unconscious, but intensely vital in us—revolts against such stagnation. Actually, it is life within us revolting—life demanding stimulation.

Don't look for a happy marriage. It would probably be the worst thing that could happen to you. Look for an exciting marriage—a provoking marriage—and a mate who will continually challenge you and put you on your mettle.

Appearance of New Stars

By ARCHIBALD HENDERSON, Ph.D.

IN ANCIENT times, the cosmos was popularly thought to be immutable. It would have been deemed heretical had anyone suggested the contrary. Stars, once seen, never disappeared. Dark stars were never dreamed of. It was not conceived to be possible that a new star should suddenly appear in the heavens, where none had ever been seen before.

And yet astronomers, since the time of Hipparchus, have from time to time observed in the sky points of light which had either formerly escaped their attention or else suddenly appeared as if from nowhere and out of nothing.

So little had this phenomenon been studied, so comparatively seldom had it been observed, that as late as the time of Tycho Brahe, the appearance of a new star was regarded with wonder and bewilderment. Tycho Brahe, a really great astronomer, was so astounded by this "new" star appearing like a ghost in the firmament that he regarded it as a miracle—"comparable to the standing still of the sun at command of Joshua or the darkness that came on the earth at the Crucifixion."

Kepler and many other distinguished astronomers observed these new stars, but no adequate study of them was made for a long time. It was believed that these stars were really new creations, of matter, gas or what not, and that after a comparatively brief life they were doomed by their very nature to go out of existence.

Up to the year 1670 A. D., while many new stars had doubtless been observed, there is record of only 13. All these were recorded in or near the Milky Way. Early in the last century two were observed, and 1848 witnessed the discovery of still others. With the ushering in of the contemporary era of astronomic photography, the discovery of new stars has not been infrequent.

All of these have been very faint, of about the 18th magnitude, with one noteworthy exception. This is Nova Andromeda, discovered in 1885, which attained a magnitude of 7.5, and within less than a year had totally disappeared, even to the largest telescopes. During this century, aside from a few faint novae, five bright ones have been observed: Nova Geminorum, 1912; Nova Aquilae, 1918; Nova Cygni, 1920, and Nova Pictoris, 1925.

How do astronomers attempt to explain the sudden appearance of these strangers, who enter unbidden our gates?

The explanation, given more than 60 years ago, is a shrewd surmise, and deserves to be mentioned: Volcanic forces, perhaps, or partial collision of another dark star, had led to the escape of highly heated gases from within; and a chemical combination, after the gases had cooled by sudden expansion, gave rise to the outburst of flame at once very brilliant and of very short duration.

Think It Over

AS WE JOURNEY ALONG THE PATH OF LIFE
Hal Coffman

Fashion has adopted the question mark. In Paris, where styles begin, hats, shawls, purses, handkerchiefs are all being adorned with "?"

For once fashion, usually stupid, has an IDEA.

Look at any crowd, see how many men and women are bent into human interrogation points by the loads they carry.

The burden may be sickness, poverty, responsibility—or even wealth.

The tired, neurasthenic clerk asks, with the droop of his shoulders, "Will I hold my job?"

The breadliner, "Will I eat?"

The man of affairs, "Will I succeed?"

The capitalist, "Will I make more, or lose what I have?"

The young girl, or the married woman, "Does he love me?"

All ask some question, mutely, but fervently. For life itself is a question, and perhaps death also.

No question is ever completely answered. Yet to seek the answer fearlessly and faithfully is man's lot, and his greatest privilege as well, if he but knew it.

When Employes Help

New Haven Gets Good Results

Give an employe responsibility, or appeal to his spirit of co-operation, and he rises to it like the trout to the fly.

President Pelley asked the New Haven Railroad employes to offer suggestions on how prospective business might be procured and he promptly received 675 traffic tips from 417 employes.

Much better than to regard workmen of human flesh as robots and automatons, to be used like machines until they are worn out and then dumped onto the junk heap.

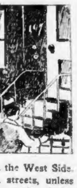
The Baltimore & Ohio became a revived and rehabilitated railroad so quickly after the great shopmen's strike because President Willard, a Vermonter by birth, not only recognized the men had a grievance that ought to be discussed but because he also put it up to them to devise means of improving the service. The humblest mechanic knows his ideas and suggestions will be received with respect. The Canadian National railway lines adopted the same system of co-operation with marked success.

If we were asked for a suggestion we would reply to President Pelley: Don't let the New Haven fall into the hands of the Pennsylvania or any railroad holding corporation. Keep it in New England hands, and managed by New England brains whose first interest lies in the development of New England.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—That sweep of Central Park West from 92d st. to Columbus Circle has suddenly acquired a striking new architectural opulence. It bristles with dizzy towers—a street that came back. Always geographically superb, it for a time somehow became shabby.



Fine old apartment houses with genuine aristocratic pretensions went to seed and became the sort featuring those sullen West Indian hallboys and lacquered ladies whose companionship consisted solely of chows, colored maids and gentlemen who carried their own keys.

Overlooking the park, the thoroughfare was rightfully, next to Riverside Drive, one of the most fashionable on the West Side. But in New York, streets, unless watched, go into devastating decay. Like a spotted apple in the barrel, one shady apartment house will spoil an entire street.

Central Park West began to take on a patina of pomp 20 years ago when the millionaire backers of the ill-fated New—later the Century and now being razed—theater chose the street for its site. This was followed by other outbursts of building splendor.

The Ethical Culture school lodged there. As did the First and Second Churches of Christ Science and private schools. Real estate boomed and the street was widened. Then all at once there was a pronounced sag. Central Park West seemed on the skids.

Utter stagnation seized upon it for seven years. About a year ago it began to revive. Magnificent apartments topped by penthouses shot up magically. The character of the residents completely changed. People of importance moved in and the street is swanky again.

Two of the finest residential apartments in town have recently been finished in the area of the 90's. The Dakota, considered by many the best built apartment house in the metropolis, still stands at a West 72d st. corner—about the last of the old guard.

Overheard:

"She has gone to Hollywood to play a character part in a movie—a virgin."

And on Park ave. this morning a platinum blonde bundled up in chinchilla stepped from a block long limousine, titivated her face before a vanity mirror, lit a cigarette and waited. Presently a messenger came up and handed her a note which she tore up and threw away before reading. I'm still a-twitter.

* * *

They had run out of every dish Bide Dudley ordered so he ate what they brought him. But at the cashier's desk, he exclaimed:

In a second-hand book-shop the other day I came upon a yellowing copy of the Family Fireside, that weekly literary wallop of the Gay Nineties. Its fiction dealt almost solely with dukes, Lady de Veres and curse-you villains with insinuating sneers. The ads., too, provided a sensation in hum-drum lives, especially that one headed: "Be Important—Get Big Mail." The drawing accompanying it showed a postman, bowed double with the weight of a ponderous sack, ringing the door bell.

I have never quite forgiven the perpetrators of that flim-flam captioned: "Learn Ventriloquism at Home and Fool Your Friends." (Lock Box 86, Dept. J., Altoona, Pa.) I sent off 50 cents in stamps for the entire course. For five days after it came I went about uttering queer tight lipped noises, trying to make a voice in a closet say: "Let me out!" As an inglorious climax I was taken to the doctor for a tonsil yanking. [illegible] kept [illegible] secret.

The Family Fireside, too, recalls the home talent play it printed for free use of subscribers. It was called "Roanoke" and we presented it in the Gallia Academy hall. The performance was interrupted at intervals by what seemed to be volleys of sudden hissing. Later we learned the hissing was merely members of the audience spitting against the red hot cannon ball stove in the middle of the room.

In reviewing "Roanoke," the local paper said of my performance:

"He acted his part naturally."
